Elementary administrators resign

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Resignations were accepted from two Antioch Elementary District 34 administrators and District 34 Superintendent Dr. Daniel Burke following a special board meeting.

Burke has announced that he has been awarded a position as the new superintendent in Oxford, Conn. He will vacate his position officially on June 5, and begin his new assignment on July 1.

Burke will lead the effort to build a new high school in Oxford, halfway between Boston and New York.

Burke successfully led the referendum campaign that produced the new primary facility at Depot St. and Deep Lake Rd., and the $8,750,000 addition of Antioch Upper Grade School.

Paul Hain has accepted the position of business manager for Lake Bluff School District 65 effective July 1.

Hain's 26-year tenure in Antioch included positions as principal and business manager.

He led the district through the successful implementation of a comprehensive technology program and has been a key player in the current building program.

Deborah Kerr resigned her position as principal at Antioch Upper Grade School to become the new superintendent/principal of Wilmot Grade School District in Wilmot, Wis. This will be Kerr's first superintendent position.

With these resignations, the two interim superintendents, Dr. Donald Gossett and Dr. Darrell Dick, will review and recommend personnel

Police department to integrate motorcycles

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Police Department has received a grant from the Harley Davidson Company of Milwaukee, Wis., in conjunction with Woodstock Harley Davidson, awarding the department two police-style motorcycles.

The motorcycles will be striped and decals applied, as a donation by Millennium Graphics and Signs, who specialize in striping squad cars and other police vehicles.

The Antioch Police Department plans to utilize these motorcycles by integrating them into the Community Policing Federal Grant, which will fall under the guidelines as established by the Federal Government.

Teens from the St. Peter Parish Youth Group didn't just buy a couple of plants at wholesale to resell for their fund-raiser, they started everything literally from the ground up—including building a greenhouse complete with a ventilation system on church property.

Larry Addison explained, "The idea started about two years ago. We were looking for a fund-raiser and I suggested that we grow plants in the greenhouse I have in my backyard. That first year we had about 500 smaller plants for sale and 24 hanging baskets."

Though pleased with the outcome of their first sale, the group began setting its sights higher. They knew they needed more space and space that was more accessible to the entire youth group than Addison's backyard.

"This way when we have our meetings, everyone can work on taking care of the plants," Addison

Antioch teen gets six-year sentence for selling drugs

By TIM FROHLIG
Staff Reporter

In a negotiated plea bargain, 19-year-old Robert V. Thatcher, Jr. of Antioch was sentenced to six years imprisonment, after selling psilocin hallucinogenic mushrooms to undercover agents.

Thatcher and 17-year-old Brandon M. Orlando of Lake Villa were charged with conspiracy to deliver a half-pound of the mushrooms, the equivalent of approximately 1,000 hits.

At the time his arrest occurred, Thatcher was on probation after being convicted of two 1997 home burglaries. The sentence handed down by Lake County Circuit Court Judge James Boras covered both the drug and violation of probation charges.

The sentence was negotiated by defense attorney Elliot Pinsel and Assistant state's attorney Laura Horner. The drug charge carried a maximum sentence of 30 years, while the burglaries carried a potential seven-year sentence.

Orlando has a trial scheduled for June 9.

Both were arrested by the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group after attempting to sell the drug to agents. The deal was allegedly made by Orlando, while Thatcher set up the delivery. According to police, the mushrooms had a street value of approximately $1,400.

Also in Thatcher's possession were six grams of the drug ketamine—a substance commonly used as an anesthetic, known for its hallucinogenic properties.

All charges stemming from Thatcher's possession of the substance were dropped.

Post office to collect food for local pantries

The National Association of Letter Carriers will conduct its eighth annual Food Drive on May 13. The letter carriers will collect non-perishable food donations along their mail routes. This national food drive is the largest one-day collection of food in the nation.

"This year we will also have a mail truck parked in front of the Jewel food store from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. for shoppers who might want to purchase an extra can of food or two to help the cause," said Todd Erickson, food drive coordinator for the Antioch Post Office. "All food collected stays here in Antioch, to be divided up between three different participating food banks: Antioch Food Bank located at United Methodist Church, Antioch Township Food Bank located at the Antioch Township office and St. Peter's Food Bank located at St. Peter's Church."

The letter carriers of Branch 409 collected over 60,000 pounds of food in Lake County in 2000. Last year nearly 1,400 NALC branches, involving over 100,000 letter carriers, in over 10,000 cities and towns, collected more than 58 million pounds of food. All food collected goes to food pantries located in the community in which it is donated.

NALC President Vincent Sombrotto, has said that for millions of Americans who are hungry, the only opportunity for their family to have a good meal is from their local food pantry. Generous donations are desperately needed as many of the food pantries are virtually empty at a time when it is needed most. The need is great in the summer when children are out of school and do not have access to the lunch programs offered by their schools.

The May 13, food drive is being sponsored by local NALC branches, including Rodney Graham Branch 409 in Waukegan, in conjunction with the U.S. Postal Service Priority Mail, Campbell's soup, the AFL-CIO, the United Way, and the food pantries located in every community. The National Association of Letter Carriers is especially grateful to the United States Postal Service whose Priority Mail Division is generously sponsoring the printing of nearly 100 million full-color postcards that will feature the special "Family Circus" cartoon created by Bil Keane to help promote the drive.

This year Rodney Graham Branch 409 will be assisted by the Girl Scouts and other United Way volunteers as they collect donations at the Jewel Food Stores located at Grand and Greenbay Rd., and the store at Yorkhouse and Lewis. This expansion of the drive is intended to assist the pantries at Catholic Charities and the Christian Outreach of Lutherans (COOL) who operate the two largest food pantries in Lake County. Carriers will also be at the Jewel in Antioch and the Piggly Wiggly in Grayslake to stock those local pantries.

Students teach adults about Internet at Grass Lake School

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Grass Lake School will initiate public Internet access at its Art and Technology Festival on May 15. The festival is open to all Antioch residents.

The school wants to position itself as a community center by making access to the Internet available to the entire community.

Students will become the teachers and train parents and other community members on the 36 computers connected to the Internet from 6-8 p.m. A professional trainer will also be available for sessions at 6:30, 7 and 7:30 p.m.

These computers are the result of a grant from the state of Illinois.

The school hopes to reach its ultimate goal of 60 computers within the next couple of years.

The school is only one of 275 schools in the state subscribing to Classroom Connect, an Internet-based curriculum product, and one of 2,545 participating in AmeriQuest, a California Internet program, also made possible by the grant.

Students completed a month-long Internet exploration of the Indians of Anasazi through the program.

The art portion of the festival will showcase student art, a performance by the school band, and the Young Author Award winners.

Additionally, there will be face painting, balloon sculpture, and refreshments.

Mayor testifies at hearing on train horn rules

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug testified at a hearing of the Northwest Municipal Conference regarding concerns over the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) proposed rule which would require the sounding of train horns at every at-grade railroad crossing in America.

Under the FRA's proposed rule, whistles would have to begin sounding from one-quarter mile before the crossing. According to Shineflug, 6,486 residents live within one half mile of an at-grade crossing.

This would mean that trains would have to sound their horns continuously through Antioch. "Quiet zones" can be established if communities install or adopt a set of approved supplementary safety measures and alternative safety measures at every crossing in a proposed "quiet zone" that "fully compensate for the absence of the audible warning provided by the locomotive horn."

These approved measures include four quadrant gates, medians or channelization devices at gated crossings, paired one-way streets, temporary closure and use of photo-enforcement technology.

Shineflug said, "Our concerns relate to both the practicality and the cost of the proposed supplementary safety measures and alternative safety measures."

She testified, "Depending on the crossing configuration, installation of these gates may cost as much as $400,000 per crossing in urban areas according to the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC). However, the ICC has not even approved the use of these gates making it impossible for a community to install them as an approved safety measure. The ICC has indicated that it, as well as several railroad companies, has great concern that four quadrant gates can trap automobiles on the tracks when the gates are lowered."

Of median barriers, Shineflug continued, "Median barriers can be installed only at crossing where there is at least 90 feet between the crossing and the next parallel intersection or curb cut. In Antioch, the entrance to the Metra parking lot is located less than 90 feet from the crossing on Depot St. And the option of flexible delineator barriers raises both aesthetic and practical questions. These 'striped paddle' type installations may be considered unsightly and can be easily damaged by vehicles and snow plows."

Regarding paired one-way streets, Shineflug said, "This option simply is not realistic for the Village of Antioch since the village has only three main east-west roads all of which cross the Wisconsin Central/Metra tracks."

Shineflug also cited this as the reason why temporary closure of crossings is not feasible.

"Photo enforcement involves placing video surveillance cameras at grade crossings to record and ticket individuals who violate grade crossing traffic laws. The Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) estimates an average cost of $300,000 per grade crossing for installation of photo enforcement equipment, and an annual average cost of $25,000 per grade crossing operation."

No new federal funding is proposed to pay for these upgrades.

FRA is accepting public comment until May 26. Comments can be sent to Docket Clerk, Attn: Docket # FRA-1999-6439, DOT Central Docket Management Facility, 400 Seventh St.S.W. Plaza- 401, Washington, D.C. 20590-0001.

Antioch Community High School student web site earns attention

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

During the board of education meeting for Antioch Community High School District 117, Fran Waible, instructional leader for the English department, had students from the Electronic Publishing Class show off portions of the web page they put together for the high school this year.

"Things are really going well—lots of cool things going on with the web site. A lot of the new candidates I've been interviewing for the English position want to see what Antioch is all about and latch onto the web site. All of them have commented how informational and interesting it was, and then were really amazed that the kids did it. Out in the public, they are really watching what we're doing here and it's been a nice thing for prospective new teachers to see what we are all about," said Waible.

Four different projects were showcased. As the web site was loading and building, Michael Gordy, who teaches the electronic publishing class, told of how the school was contacted by a group that provides consulting for both the Chicago Tribune and the Sun Times.

The group wants to test market regional, on-line newspapers in the suburbs. "The best way to do this is through the high schools as they are the hub of what's happening in the community," said Gordy.

According to Gordy, the group wants to test pilot a six-week program, using two to four students. The students would be paid as part-time employees, and the consultants would be the school's link to answer the technical questions that arise from the students' web page work.

Gordy said, "This group spent the last four to five months looking at high school web sites in the Chicagoland area. They narrowed it down to two, but then came back to talk to us."

"The reason was the size and diversity of the web site and the different types of things we've done lead them to believe that we would be interested in trying this."

Then the board members were able to assess the students' proficiency first-hand.

First they had the opportunity to hear students voice opinions regarding the death penalty.

Photos of the four student respondents were scanned and formatted for quick downloading. Play buttons under the photos activate the individual student's answer in his or her own voice.

Next, board members were given a mini-lesson in animation. Menus and sub-menus allow the browser to access information about all of the art classes offered efficiently.

Though visually simple, all of the interactive buttons are small, four-frame movies. These movies are what give the impression that a physical button has been pushed and released.

Portions of the yearbook compact disc have also been placed on the web site. Included was a 15-second video clip of the dance team at the state championship.

The clip was a little choppy as frames had to be deleted to bring the file size down from 47 MB to 800 K.

Finally, the board was shown how students archive the school newspaper. Each page is saved as a PDF file which condenses the information into a manageable file size. A program called Adobe Acrobat is required to read PDF files. This program can be downloaded free of charge. There is a direct link on the page to make downloading this program simple.

They began researching greenhouses on the Internet. While there were many plans available, it took some time to find the one plan that would best suit their needs and within a budget they could afford.

"There was a lot of stuff out there, but everything was too much. We considered getting a kit, but then we found this plan in North Carolina, from the University of North Carolina I think," recalled

Addison.

Last fall, armed with plans and the materials needed to see the project through fruition, the youth group built its greenhouse.

Resa Boarini reports that the construction of the greenhouse itself wasn't the big expense—only $150. It was the heater and the shelves that set the group back over $1,500. Thelen Sand and Gravel donated the gravel floor for the structure.

From the time the greenhouse was built in October until the planting began in January, the group researched soils, plants and how to care for them. They used every resource available particularly Mary Schwinn's greenhouse where Addison is employed.

Most of this year's 40 varieties, including some 1,300 smaller plants, 80 hanging baskets and 20 hand-painted clay pots were started from seed. Others were started from plugs or small seedlings.

A small percentage of the plants were donations from the congregation. "Pauline Hart took cuttings from the Dry Cleaning Center in Round Lake Commons, and donated them to us," said Addison.

The entire youth group helped with this project. They took turns watering the plants and monitoring the greenhouse's temperature.

"We couldn't afford a heater with a direct thermometer on the inside of the greenhouse," said Addison. "The temperature has to be checked at least twice a day. With the warm weather, it's been hard to keep it from getting too hot."

"These are very wonderful, responsible kids to do all this. There have been many days after school when the kids spent all of their time planting, re-planting, and watering," says Marybeth Vaughan, one of the group's leaders. "We have very talented kids."

The youth group earned money to cover the cost of the greenhouse structure through the sale of Entertainment coupon books and from the profits of the disc jockey service the students operate.

In kind, they hope to pay off the recently purchased DJ set up with the profits of the plant sale. Mary Leonard, leader and youth group minister, said, "The kids are working very hard towards having a working budget."

Addison concluded, "We all worked hard on this project, but we couldn't have done it all without the support of our leaders: Mary Leonard, Marybeth Vaughan, Larry and Monica Addison, and Don Oelerich."

and will continue to develop the budget document during May and June. They will participate with teachers of the Antioch Elementary Education Association, IEA/NEA, building level administrators and board members in training sessions in interest-based bargaining for upcoming negotiations.

It is the intention of the interim superintendents to recommend a building principal for Antioch Lower Grade School at the May 16 board meeting.

A new administrative team will emerge as a new principal and a new superintendent are hired during the next year.

assigned to personnel who will concentrate their policing efforts in patrolling neighborhoods and parks, traffic enforcement and parade duty. The motorcycles will also be used as a community relations tool at our schools and with our DARE programs," said Chief Charlie Watkins.

In the regular Village Board meeting, trustees discussed and determined that cost would be under $1,000 per bike including officer training and the $100 processing fee.

Arrest warrant

Alfred T. Meadows, 35, of 1516 Fulton Ave. in Wadsworth, was stopped for a traffic violation revealing a warrant for his arrest on May 4 at 11:41 p.m. on Rte. 173 at Deep Lake Rd. Police clocked the vehicle's speed at 64 mph in a posted 45 mph zone. He was stopped for speeding, and produced both a valid driver's license and proof of insurance. Upon checking Meadows' identifiers through LEADS/NCIC, he came back as being wanted by Lake County for domestic battery.

Meadows was placed under arrest and transported to the Antioch Police Department. He was taken through booking procedures and was issued a citation for speeding. Meadows posted his driver's license for the traffic citation. He made several phone calls in an attempt to secure bond with negative results.

Meadows was transported to Lake County Jail where he was turned over to Lake County correctional officers.

Tracy L. Patterson, 29, of Drom Ct. in Antioch, was arrested on a warrant for criminal trespass to residence on May 4 at 3:15 p.m. Patterson, a possible wanted subject, was spotted in the parking lot of Bernie's Citgo. She was approached and advised the reason for police presence. Her identifiers were checked through LEADS/NCIC and the Lake County Sheriff's Office.

The Antioch Police Department Dispatch confirmed a warrant for a criminal trespass to residence with a bond of $5,000. Patterson was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department for booking procedures. Patterson posted a $500 cash bond and was released pending her court date at 9 a.m. on May 18 in Waukegan.

DUI

Michael S. Ruble, 39, of 165 Oakwood Dr. in Antioch, was arrested on May 7 at 2:16 a.m. for driving under the influence of alcohol. He was spotted stopping beyond a stop sign at the intersection of Toft and Orchard. Turned on Orchard and then Main. While traveling northbound on Main, Ruble's vehicle swerved in the lane four times. The fourth time, he drove the up onto the curb with the passenger side tires and swerved abruptly back into the lane. His court date is set for June 13 in Waukegan.

No valid license

Peter Kolar, 79, of 280 Anita Terrace in Antioch, received citations for speeding and driving with a suspended license on May 5 at 3:19 p.m.

Police radar indicated Kolar's blue mini-van was traveling 32 mph in a posted 25 mph zone. Police recognized Kolar as he passed and had prior knowledge that his license was suspended. The officer stopped Kolar in the parking lot where he lives and confirmed through LEADS/NCIC that his license was still under suspension. Kolar was taken into custody and then released on a $100 cash bond pending court.

Mario Chavez, 35, of 10433 266th Ave. in Trevor, Wis., was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on May 4 at 10:34 p.m. He was transported to the Antioch Police Department for booking procedures. He was released on $100 cash bond pending his court date on May 24 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

William E. Shaden, 48, of 100 N. Atkinson Rd. in Grayslake, was given citations for speeding and driving while his license was suspended on May 4 at 11:12 a.m. on Rte. 173 east of Eagle Ridge. Shaden's white Chevy pick-up truck was traveling 67 mph in a posted 55 mph zone. Shaden's identifiers were checked through LEADS and returned for being suspended. Shaden was put through booking procedures and released on bond pending his court date in Grayslake on June 14 at 9 a.m.

LAKE VILLA

Warrant for possession

A 17-year-old male, who listed his residence as Chicago, surrendered himself to Lake Villa police at 11:46 a.m. on May 3, saying he believed he was wanted on a warrant. He also told police that he might have marijuana in his wallet. A search discovered .5 grams of a leafy green substance in a plastic bag in the suspect's wallet. The substance field-tested positive for cannabis, and was taken into evidence to be submitted to a lab test. Upon checking, police found that the male was wanted in Waukegan on a no bond warrant for contempt of court. He was charged with possession of cannabis, with a court date of June 14 at 1:30 p.m. He was then remanded to Lake County Jail on the warrant.

Suspended license

Christopher N. Clark, 19, of 37736 N. Harding in Lake Villa, was stopped by Lake Villa police on Rte. 132 near Cedar Lake Rd. A check on his license plate turned up a suspended driver's license. His car was impounded. Clark was charged with driving with a suspended license, and driving an uninsured vehicle. He was released on an I-bond pending his court date on June 14 at 3 p.m. in Grayslake Branch III.

Darwin E. Oelkers, 28, of 22065 Calvin Dr. in Antioch, was charged with driving an uninsured vehicle and driving on a license suspended for emissions after a Lake Villa police officer ran a Secretary of State computer check and found the suspension. The officer made the arrest on May 3 at 4:49 p.m. on Rte. 83 near Petite Lake Rd. Oelkers was given a notice to appear on June 14 at 3 p.m. at Branch III.

Criminal trespass

Robert Ravenscraft, 58, of 57 Tweed Rd. in Fox Lake, was reported to Lake Villa Police for trespassing on railroad property. Police, answering a complaint, found Ravenscraft sitting on the side of the railroad tracks about 500 feet north of Cedar Ave., holding a camcorder. He said he was recording passing trains, as he has for the past 10 years. He was charged for criminal trespass on a local ordinance, with a court date of June 14 at 1:30 p.m. at Branch III. He was released with a warning to stay away from the tracks.

DUI

On April 28, at 12:32 a.m., Anthony Derosa, 32, of 85-B Edison Ct. in Fox Lake, was stopped by Lake Villa Police on Grass Lake Rd. when they observed him traveling 82 mph in a 40 mph zone. He drove through a stop sign, and when police pursued him, it appeared that he increased his speed, at one point driving 105 mph in a 40 mph zone. He drove through a red light, nearly hitting another vehicle. When he was stopped, the driver said, "I knew I was speeding. What else did I do?" He produced a Nevada I.D. card, and had no proof of insurance. Police smelled alcohol on Derosa's breath. Field sobriety tests indicated impairment. Investigation turned up no driver's license in either Nevada or Illinois. Derosa became verbally abusive during the arrest process. At the police station, a breathalyzer test revealed a B.A.C. of .163, more than twice the legal limit. His driving record showed a previous DUI and suspended license in New York. He was charged with speeding (42 miles over limit), street DUI, DUI over .08, disobeying a stop sign, driving an uninsured vehicle, no valid driver's license and aggravated fleeing (attempting to evade a police officer). The fleeing charge is a Class 1 felony. Derosa was immediately transferred to Lake County Jail for bond court.

LINDENHURST

Suspended license

For the second time in less than three weeks, Marvin K. Knuth, 29, of 26129 W. Spring Grove Rd. in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a suspended license. On May 8, at 1:13 a.m., Knuth was stopped by Lindenhurst Police at Rte. 45 and Country Place. A check with the Secretary of State (S.O.S.) computer showed the plates on the pick-up truck he was driving were expired as of February 2000. The registered owner of the truck, Paul McCaslin, was listed as having a revoked license. The driver did not have a driver's license. The officer recognized Knuth from a previous arrest, on April 22, for driving with a suspended license. Knuth said he borrowed the truck from Caslin. He could not produce an insurance card. The S.O.S. showed Knuth's license as suspended since October 1999. He also has seven traffic convictions in the past 12 months. He was charged with driving an uninsured vehicle, and driving on a suspended license. He was released on a cash bond of $200, to appear in Grayslake Branch III on June 7 at 1:30 p.m.

Michael A. Parker, 41, of 1030 Elmwood St. in Waukegan, was stopped by Lindenhurst Police on April 27 at 10:20 a.m. at Grand Ave. near Victory Lakes, and charged with driving with a suspended registration and a suspended license. The Secretary of State computer reported his plates were suspended due to an insurance violation. Parker produced insurance papers, and said the state had his license. His car was towed, and he was charged and released on an I-bond for $3,000, pending his court appearance at Grayslake on June 7 at 10:30 a.m.

License revoked

Mario Castillo-Ruiz, 27, of 1613 Holmes in Racine, Wis., was stopped at Rte. 45 and Haven by Lindenhurst Police on May 1, at 8:50 p.m. when he was observed driving 51 mph in a 40 mph zone. The S.O.S. computer showed Castillo-Ruiz had his license revoked in Ill. He did have a valid Wis. driver's license. His car was towed, and he was charged with driving on a revoked license. He was given a warning for speeding, but not charged. He was released on $100 cash bond, with a court date of June 7 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

DUI

Clinton Croucher, 25, of 40445 Bluff Dr. in Antioch, was stopped on May 6 at 2:68 p.m. when Lindenhurst Police observed him weaving in traffic at Rte. 45 and Haven. Police detected the odor of alcohol on his breath, slurred speech, and bloodshot and glassy eyes. When asked where he was coming from, he seemed confused. Field sobriety tests indicated impairment. A breathalyzer test yielded a BAC of .130, more than one-and-a-half times the legal limit. He was charged with improper lane usage, DUI and DUI over .08. He was released on an I-bond, with a court date of June 13 in C402, Waukegan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parks Department responds to letter

This letter is in response to the letter to the editor written by Anna Soria and published in your April 28th issue. Antioch is a small community with limited sources of tax revenue. In addition, our ability to increase tax revenue is strictly limited by a tax cap imposed by the State of Illinois. Because Antioch Parks and Recreation is a department of the Village and not a park district, our staff and funds are very limited compared to a park district which is funded by specific park district tax money. The Parks Department's major source of funding comes from new residential housing developments. As each development comes for approval before the Park Board, Planning and Zoning Board and ultimately, the Village Board, great care is taken to obtain appropriate park impact fees. These fees can be in the form of land, cash or a combination of both, as required by the subdivision and/or zoning codes of the village.

In 1990, Antioch residents turned down a referendum for a park district. Another park district referendum may be planned for the future. Until the time Antioch residents vote yes for a park district referendum, the Antioch Parks Department will continue to bring the village residents the best in parks and recreation programs, facilities and equipment available to us. In the meantime, construction and renovation of the new Parks Department facility on Holbek is progressing on schedule and should be open in June.

Laurie E. Stahl
Director of Antioch Parks and Recreation Department

'Tree' designation is misnomer

In reading the article proclaiming Antioch as "Tree City USA," I could only wonder how that designation fits with the planned destruction of thousands of trees on the old Homer White property to provide high density for the developer Neumann Homes.

Per the tree inventory taken, there are over 8,000 trees on the property; more than 7,000 will be leveled—including the pine forests and the oak groves. How very sad—especially since the village could have saved this beautiful piece of land for all of Antioch instead of preventing the Forest Preserve from purchasing it.

Germany's Forgotten Castle

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

My favorite destination in Germany is Munich mostly because of its proximity to so many quaint Bavarian towns.

One of the most picturesque is the town of Fussen, a couple of hours from Munich by train.

Fussen is best known for Neuschwanstein Castle, probably the most famous and most photographed castle in the world. It's featured on just about every German travel brochure. It was also the inspiration for Sleeping Beauty's Castle at Disney Land.

I've visited and written about Neuschwanstein before, and it's still breath taking to look up and see this fantasy castle in the sky.

There's another castle outside of Fussen. It's not as "fairytale" looking as Neuschwanstein. But it's filled with much more history.

Most of the thousand of tourists, myself included, hike up the mountain to Neuschwanstein and pass right by the ancient Hohenschwangau Castle. This time I decided to visit Neuschwanstein's older neighbor.

There was just one German couple taking the tour with me. The tours are in German unless there are at least 20 English speaking guests. However, our guide (actually a relative of the Royal Family who still resides in the castle) was kind enough to translate for me.

Taking nothing away from the stunning looks of Neuschwanstein, it has little history since it dates back only to the mid 1800's and was occupied for a short 181 days by King Ludwig II before being turned into a museum. (Ludwig was declared insane and later drowned under suspicious circumstances).

Hohenschwangau, however, was constructed in the 12th century by the Knights of Schwangau and has been occupied ever since. In 1268 Prince Konradin, who was beheaded at the age of 16, lived there. The Schwangau Knights died out in the 16th century and the castle was later purchased by King Maximilian, the father of King Ludwig.

King Ludwig II, the builder of Neuschwanstein, spent most of his life at Hohenschwangau, and watched the construction of his dream castle from his bedroom window there.

Richard Wagner, a close friend of Ludwig II, was a frequent guest at Hohenschwangau. The piano, upon which Wagner played his works for Ludwig, is still on display, as are many other artifacts depicting the castle's long history.

If you do get to southern Germany, by all means, visit Neuschwanstein. But get there early enough or better yet, spend the night in Fussen, so you still have time to tour Hohenschwangau.

SCHOOL DIGEST

Carmel High School announces Illinois State Scholars

The Illinois Student Assistance Commission recently announced the 2000-2001 Illinois State Scholars. Of this year's scholars, 48 are students from Carmel High School, nearly 20 percent of this year's senior class.

About 10 percent of Illinois' high school seniors are designated State Scholars. Selection of state scholars is based on a combination of ACT and/or SAT 1 scores, and class rank at the end of junior year.

Antioch residents Christine Fusz and Laura Sheehan are two of the Illinois State Scholars from Carmel High School.

Meyer's basketball camp provides instruction, fun

A chance to learn from the best while enjoying the camping atmosphere—how can you go wrong!

It all takes shape when boys ages 9-17 can get that experience of a lifetime by attending Meyer's annual summer basketball camp. Lakeland Newspapers is a proud sponsor of the Meyer Camp, now in its 56th year.

"We've had a lot of great players pass through here," said the coach. "It's a chance to upgrade your skills by playing against better competition. There's also many activities offered outside of basketball. The kids always have a great time."

Campers can attend any one of four sessions, with the first running July 10-17. A second session runs July 17-24, followed by July 23-31 and finally, July 31-Aug. 7.

The cost of the camp is $350. The fee includes lodging, meals, morning basketball skills training and afternoon competition plus tournaments. And, of course, Meyer and a select group of coaching staff and counselors are on hand to provide quality instruction. A $150 deposit is required.

Three boys, one in each age group, will be selected from Lakeland Newspapers' "Why I would like to attend Coach Ray Meyer's Basketball Camp" essay contest.

Simply tell us in 250 words or less why you would like to attend the camp. The age groups are 9-11, 12-14, and 15-17.

Interested entrants can send or drop off their essays to Ray Meyer Basketball Camp, c/o Lakeland Publishers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030. Deadline for entries are June 15. A panel of judges will evaluate the entries with the three winners to be notified shortly thereafter.

Coach Ray Meyer Camp is located on Little Fork Lake on the Chain O'Lakes near Rhineland and Eagle River, Wisconsin, which is surrounded by 66 acres and 3,000 feet of shoreline.

Besides basketball, activities include swimming, boating and a game room. Travel arrangements by bus are sent upon receipt of deposit.

Mothers, our day will come

It seems every time you picked up a newspaper, signed onto your Internet provider, or hummed along with the radio this week, you were being riddled with unworthiness and guilt about Sunday being Mother's Day. Like your mother's own subtle hints weren't enough of a clue. As mothers, we don full "motherhood" gear, showing our offspring constant attention and thoughtfulness as that big Sunday in May approaches, hoping to be worthy of "Mother of the Year" status.

Ask any kid what treasures have been showing up in their lunch boxes lately and you will find quite a diversion from the normal brown bag fare. Gone are the store-bought cookies, granola bars and string cheese. Suddenly cafeterias all over the country are seeing hand-dipped chocolate covered strawberries, baked Alaska and live lobster flown in fresh from Maine.

We try so hard to be extra civil to our youngsters, knowing our attitude will be a direct reflection on the over-glittered, over-glued and over-colored creation hand-crafted by their grubby little hands in our honor. We nurture them through sickness, scraped knees and broken hearts. We chauffeur, we coach, we praise, we reward, we keep them warm, dry, fed, bathed, and clothed.

Yet, as moms we get minimal recognition, loads of dirty laundry and dishes, but minimal recognition. As an adult I learned we don't truly appreciate our moms until we are moms ourselves, and by then it's too late to try to make up for all our acts of deviance and ill behavior.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Actually, our own mothers bask in these times as they see us, their daughters, being put through hell by our own offspring. They relish in the thought and are oh, so grateful they are able to witness, first-hand, the "what goes around, comes around" syndrome—nothing makes tired old eyes sparkle more than this scenario.

So as we accept our "made with love" treasure on Sunday morning, splattered with a bit of dirt and a big slobbering kiss, keep in mind that someday, we too, will hopefully bask in the "what goes around, comes around" story line, and by the grace of God, our old tired eyes will sparkle with recollection.

Happy Mother's Day.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"—don't forget to call 395-6364.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

With the way the current baseball season is going, Cubs fans may have to take solace in the days of yore.

Wauconda residents once had an inside on the baseball career of great Billy Herman.

"Herman played with a Great Lakes baseball team. He also stayed in a cottage in Wauconda during the summer," resident Rich Robertson said.

Robertson is a baseball fan who has an entire room devoted to his collection of baseballs, well-kept baseball cards, bats and other memorabilia.

"I like looking things up," Robertson said.

Herman, for example, played in 1,000 games at second base and held that record until 1985. In 15 major-league seasons, he participated in 10 all-Star games and played on four pennant winners. In his rookie year with the Cubs, he led in games played with 154 and batted .314 while collecting 206 hits. In 1935, he belted 57 doubles, a record for NL second basemen. He also hit .304 for his career with 47 home runs and 839 RBI to his credit.

Robertson, a Wauconda area resident, met many former baseball greats while attending card shows in Mundelein. He met the likes of relief great Rollie Fingers there.

His collection includes a bat used in the Negro Leagues stars Nap Guly of the Kansas City Monarchs and more than 1,500 individual autographs. The 1942 Great Lakes baseball team is considered one of the finest military teams ever. It was managed by Lt. Mickey Cochrane, and had Johnny Mize, Herman and Bob Feller. A separate black Great Lakes team had the likes of Larry Doby and Charlie Harmon.

"The team was good for morale of the troops," Robertson said.

Robertson has correspondence from ex-players Merrill "Pinky" May and Virgil Trucks. May helped him authenticate autographs on an Official 97 League Ball signed by the Great Lakes team by Goldsmith. Trucks did as well, confirming the names of first baseman Jack McCarthy, infielder Al Glossop, pitcher Billy Brandt, pitcher Si Johnson and pitcher Schoolboy Rowe, who played for the Detroit Tigers.

Robertson pointed out Trucks is known for pitching two no-hitters during the 1952 season. He led the American League in strikeouts with a then Randy Johnson-ish 153 and pitched in the 1953 and 1954 World Series. He pitched for the Tigers, Browns, White Sox, A's and Yankees.

Modern-day autographs and notes include Wade Boggs of the 3,000 hit club and Cal Ripken Jr. Billy Williams, Ernie Banks, George Brett and Robin Yount, Jay Johnstone, Bill Melton, are all part of the collection.

Robertson has an autograph from Ed Lynch, Cubs general manager. Then there are those of ex-pitcher Bill Singer, Phil Garner, Jim Abbott and Ruben Rivera.

The art of card collecting is an inexact one. "My idea of mint condition may be different than yours," he said.

Robertson sometimes watches White Sox games from as close as four rows from the dugout.

ACHS's Clarke sets sights on state meet

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The thoughts of the tortoise trying to catch the hare first comes to mind.

You haven't seen anyone run the hurdles with such grace until you've seen Antioch's Becky Clarke. And everyone seems to be chasing her.

The timing and determination, not to mention speed, has vaulted Clarke into the spotlight where Lake County girls track is concerned.

"She's very outgoing and has a tremendous work ethic," said Kathy Kelly, ACHS Dean and Clarke's former coach. "She's also great leader and sets a great example for the younger kids."

Clarke has attained just about every accolade imaginable, including three all-conference and two all-county honors.

The only thing, however, that has eluded her, is a trip to the big dance in Charleston. Of course, we make inference to the IHSA State Girls Track Meet in a little over a week from now.

Clarke will get the final chance of her high school career Friday, May 12 when she and the Lady Sequoits varsity girls track team venture to the Stevenson Sectional with state berths on the line.

"That's the goal this year," the co-captain and four-year varsity member said. "I know the competition is going to be tough but that's what pushes me to do better."

And speaking of competition, last week at the Lake County Invitational, Clarke was again looking in the rearview mirror as she breezed to the title in the 100 high hurdles with the second-place finisher coming in almost a second behind. In addition to setting a new personal best, Clarke's time of 15.70 seconds broke her own school record.

"It was a pretty good race for me," the soft-spoken Clarke said. "I try and get three steps in between hurdles but if someone comes up, I quicken my stride."

Not only are the aforementioned attributes part of Clarke's arsenal, the senior is also one tough cookie as well.

"I jammed my knee last week, so it's a little sore right now," she said shortly after the race. "It was great to win despite not having been able to run for about four days."

Clarke's versatility is something that should also not be overlooked. In addition to mastering the 100 hurdles, she presents a pretty strong case in the 300 hurdles and long jump as well.

"The 300 hurdles isn't one of my strengths," she said. "That's an event I know I can definitely improve on."

At county, she didn't do too shabby, finishing fifth with a time of 50 seconds even, also a personal best.

As for the long jump, Clarke has been right near the top in that event all season. Despite a disappointing fourth at county, her leap of 17-2 1/4 also set an all-time personal best but perhaps more important, surpassed the state-qualifying mark of 16 feet, 11 inches.

"I know I can do it again (meet the state mark) but I still need to practice a little more," she hinted. "My timing was off today."

Clarke, who plans on attending the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point next fall, is also a four-year varsity volleyball player.

And if you think this is the end of the line for the Clarke family that possesses such a rich track history, think again. Sister Holly, a sophomore, is also an accomplished hurdler and long distance runner.

"She's been doing great. She places in just about every meet," said Becky. "We have a great relationship and push each other. We're very supportive of one another."

Holly actually started competing in the 300 hurdles before Becky.

"They do push each other," added Kelly. "I think Holly beat her the first two times and Becky won the last one."

Either way you slice it, Becky might not be the only one who gets down to Charleston.

Sports Editor

Things have a way of coming around.

This season, the big innings and timely hits eluded the Antioch varsity girls softball team until last week.

That's when the Lady Sequoits posted three wins in four games.

Antioch began the week in fine fashion after pulling away from Lake Forest 12-4 in eight innings.

The Sequoits collected two singles and a Laura Weber double in staking to a 2-0 lead after the first frame.

Antioch then went ahead 4-2 after adding single runs in the third and fifth innings. But Lake Forest tied the contest at 4-4 in the seventh.

That only served a fuel to the fire as Antioch responded with an eight-run outburst in the eighth to pull out the victory.

Starting pitcher Abbey Thomas pitched well, allowing just six hits while striking out five in six innings of work. Kristin Elstrom picked up the win in relief, tossing the final two innings in picking up her second win of the season. Elstrom gave up only three hits while fanning one.

"After they (Lake Forest) tied it in the seventh, we did a nice job of pitching our way out of the inning because they had runners on second and third with no outs," said assistant coach Jeff Moxley.

In the decisive eighth inning, Elstrom lead off with a double and Becky Gillengarten and Crystal Massimo laced back-to-back singles with Elstrom crossing the plate. Amanda Pollitt then reached on an error and Kaeleen O'Connell roped an RBI single. Laura Weber followed with a bases clearing double, making the score 10-4. But Antioch wasn't finished. Katie Birk's single scored Weber and Birk later scored on an error, providing the final margin of victory.

"That was probably one of the biggest single innings of the season for us," added Moxley. "Even though we won, we still left nine on base for the game. We just need to keep working on pushing them across."

For the game, Megs Kotlarz was 2-for-3 with two runs scored, Birk 3-for-4 with a run scored, and O'Connell 2-for-4 with an RBI and three runs scored.

Antioch then proved the 12-4 victory was no fluke as it handed the Scouts a 9-6 defeat two days later.

Elstrom tossed five innings of five-hit ball with one walk and one strikeout to raise her record to 3-6.

Things didn't start out to promising as Lake Forest jumped to a 4-0 lead after the first frame. But Antioch answered with three runs of its own in the bottom of the inning to cut the deficit to 4-3. The key hit was a two-out, two-run single by Birk that scored Kotlarz (reached on an error) and O'Connell (walk). Weber, who walked, later scored the third run on a passed ball.

Antioch tied the game in the very next inning when Pollitt's RBI single scored Vanessa Taulbee, who earlier walked.

The Sequoits added a 5-spot in the fourth to break the game open at 9-4. Curran and Taulbee singled and Massimo reached on an error, scoring Curran. Pollitt's single then scored Taulbee and Kotlarz reached on a fielder's choice. O'Connell then singled in Massimo and Pollitt and Weber's single pushed Kotlarz across to close out the scoring in the inning.

Thomas pitched the last two innings in relief, giving up two runs on two hits.

"They've been complementing each other well," said Moxley. "When one starts, the other finishes it off and vice versa."

Offensively, Birk was 1-for-2 with two RBI, Pollitt 2-for-3 with a run scored and two RBI, and Taulbee 1-for-1 with two runs scored.

Later in the week, runs were hard to come by but Antioch showed they can win the close games, posting a 2-0 victory over Wauconda.

Starting pitcher Thomas pitched a gem in giving up only three hits in going the distance. She also struck out eight, walked one, and defensively, recorded three solo putouts.

"They (Wauconda) started the game with a triple but that was pretty much their only threat," said Moxley. "Abbey pitched a great game and the defense really backed her."

Antioch, which improved to 8-18 overall and 4-6 in the NSC, went ahead 1-0 in the second frame when Taulbee reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Weber, who earlier lead off with a single.

The Sequoits added their second run in the fifth when Kotlarz singled to right, stole second and went to third on a past ball. She then scored on O'Connell's sacrifice.

Despite the win, Antioch still left too many runners on base-10 to be exact.

"We're getting the hits but runners we might have on base are not in good position to score," Moxley noted. "We just have to keep the bats moving and fine-tune the basics. But I'm very happy with our pitching and defense."

Against the Bulldogs, Weber was 2-for-3 with a double and run scored, Kotlarz 1-for-3 with a run scored, Birk 1-for-2 and O'Connell 1-for-2 with a sacrifice and one RBI.

Antioch will look to keep the momentum going when it hosts Round Lake May 12 at 4:30 p.m.

Lancer baseball rockin, rollin' in sectional tourney

Sports Editor

Eleven, 11, 18 and five.
Good numbers to know if one is a CLC baseball fan.

That's because on Monday afternoon, The College of Lake County men's baseball team took another step towards a state championship after posting a pair of victories in the Section II state tournament. CLC downed McHenry in the first game 3-1, followed by a five-inning, 18-2 drubbing over Highland.

The wins set up a return date with McHenry in the double-elimination format with the winner advancing to the Region IV Tournament this weekend in Kankakee, where CLC is assured of no lower than a second seed.

Scott Fuller double, Travis Platt single, Justin Keegan home run, Brad Brunty home run, Brett McCollum-well, you get the point.

In the game against Highland, it was merely batting practice as everyone joined the hit parade.

After staking to a 7-0 lead after two frames, the hosts poured it on in the third, sending 11 men to the plate. The result-11 Lancers crossed the plate and before you could blink, the lead doubled and then some at 18-2.

Cather Brunty, who had already blasted a solo shot in the first inning, belted a fastball over the leftcenterfield fence to kick off the onslaught in the third.

"We worked religiously on his game since the end of last season," said assistant coach Glen Jewell on Brunty, who was a non-starter last year. "Five-to-six days a week working out and hitting-it's all paying off for him."

"I do feel pretty confident out there," the starting catcher reflected. "We had a lot of intensity out there today. It was consistent throughout both games. And the defense has been great."

Leftfielder Brett McCollum then complemented Brunty as the two hit back-to-back dingers. Other big hits, as there were so many in the inning and game for that matter, included leadoff hitter, centerfielder Justin Keegan, leaving the yard. For the game, CLC hammered out four round-trippers, surpassing the 50 mark for the season.

"It hasn't been the hitting," said head skipper Gene Hanson, who's team has been averaging a shade over 10 runs per game. "We know we're going to hit the ball. Errors have been the problem, especially early in the season. But the last 18-20 games, the defense has been excellent."

And speaking of those errors, CLC, now 38-14 overall, committed only three all day. Furthermore, the defense was sparkling, turning four double-plays over the two games. In the outfield and with the wind blowing out big time, speed was tested but the trio of right fielder Travis Platt, centerfielder Keegan, and leftfielder McCollum were all on their horses, making several extended catches.

"Our speed is pretty good out there," added Hanson. "There's not much that gets by those guys."

Lake County scored all of the runs it would need with a two-spot in the bottom of the first. Reggie Hughes laced a two-out double to left-center and Brunty took care of the rest with his seventh homer of the season.

Starting pitcher Jeff LaBelle gave up only two hits with four strikeouts and one earned run in five innings of work.

For the game, Brunty finished 2-for-4 with two homers, four RBIs and two runs scored; McCollum 2-for-3 with a homer, double, two RBIs and a run scored; Keegan 2-for-3 with a homer, double, four RBIs and three runs scored; Hughes 2-for-3 with a double and three RBIs; Scott Fuller 2-for-2 with two doubles and three runs scored; and, Ryan Liebgott 2-for-3 with a double, two RBIs and two runs scored as CLC banged out 16 hits in the game.

In earlier action against McHenry, CLC got all of the runs it would need after putting a 2-spot on the board in the bottom of the first. LaBelle smacked an RBI single, scoring Keegan, who leadoff with a walk. Brunty, who finished the first game 3-for-4 with a double and an RBI, belted an RBI single, scoring Kaywood.

"We should have scored more runs by overall, that was an excellent ballgame played by both teams," added Hanson.

McCollum then hit an RBI double in the third, scoring Brunty (double) for Lake County's third run.

On the mound, ace Jake Hanson went all nine innings, scattering six hits while fanning seven to improve his record to 10-1 on the year.

The National tournament is held in Millington, Tennessee May 27 through June 3.

And from the looks of things, Lake County look well on their way.

Wilmot to open season Saturday

May 13 is the date for the 2000 season opener at the Historic Wilmot Speedway. The speedway kicks off its 49th year of excitement and great family fun with a Mothers Day Special featuring a free rose to the first 300 mothers who enter the main grandstand gates. Opening night will feature a Wilmot tradition with the season debut of the awesome 750 hp Spring cars, the IMCA Modifieds and the speedway returns to the past with Herbs IMC Hobby Stocks. The 1999 season proved again that the road to the home of Sprint car racing is through Wilmot as the speedway again lead the nation in average car count per night with 44. The 2000 season looks to have more than its share of excitement from these high powered four wheeled rockets as the speedway is moving to a new format for race line-ups.

Speedway management, looking to increase the excitement levels of all the races, has decided the Sprint cars will no longer time-trial and their line-ups will be set by the luck of a pill. At the beginning of the night the drivers will pull a number/pill to determine where they start in their heat race. From there on it's going to be up to the driver's skill to move to the front to get to the main event.

"We looked at ways to increase the excitement for the fans who attend the races and shorten our program to meet our curfew requirements," said promoter and track president Andy Calin.

"Pulling a number at the beginning of the night leaves a lot to chance to terms of heat race starting positions, but should really make for some outstanding racing and add a level of the unexpected to the race program. The way we see it, the cream will ultimately rise to the top, but it's going to be exciting watching it happen."

So what else is new in 2000? How about the King Olaf Flying Fish Challenge. Every race night, guests attending the races can register for a chance to win a charter fishing adventure on Lake Michigan courtesy of King Olaf Charters. The New State Bank of the Lakes Jr. Fan Club will feature nightly prizes through the prize patrol and a chance to win $25 through the new State Bank of the Lakes IMCA Modified Partner Race. The 1216 Club members will get a chance to be the Voice of the Wilmot Speedway when the fan of the night announces a race. Discover Novus, the Official Credit Card of the Wilmot Speedway, will be handing out free watches and fanny packs to fans plus the speedway has the nightly T-shirt shot. That's just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to the fun and excitement in store for the 2000 season, so don't miss a minute because you'll really miss a lot.

Opening night and every night the speedway grandstands open at 5 p.m. and racing roars at you at 7 p.m. For further information visit the website at www.wilmotspeedway.com or call the Hotlines-(262) 862-2446 or (847) 838-RACE.

Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools kick off second season

The Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools enter their second season after a successful kick off in the summer of 1999. In addition to the week-long, one-half day camps scheduled at more than 100 locations in the Chicago area, overnight camps are being offered for the first time in the Bulls' history.

The overnight team and skills camps consist of 12 sessions in six weeks (June 11 to July 23) and are open to boys and girls in grades 5-12. The four-day, three-night camps (Sunday-Wednesday and Thursday-Sunday) cost $250 for overnight campers and $210 for commuters. Emphasis is on teams but individuals can sign up and be placed with teammates of similar ability. The overnight camps are being held at Saint Joseph's College in Rensselaer, Ind., which is located off I-65, 60 miles south of Chicago and 100 miles north of Indianapolis.

The second season of Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools will again run Monday-Friday from mid-June to mid-August and cost $189. The camps are open to girls and boys ages 6-14 and are divided into either morning (8:30 a.m.-noon) or afternoon (1:30-5 p.m.) sessions. Players will be separated into rookie (ages 6-8) and veteran (ages 9-14) groups. Register now because space is limited to 50 participants per camp.

To reserve space or request more information on the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools, call 1 (877) 55-BULLS (877-552-8557) or visit www.nba.com/bulls/bulls_schools.html.

The camp staff is hand picked by the Chicago Bulls and are college and high school coaches as well as college varsity players. The coach to player ratio will also be kept at or below 10:1 to ensure quality personal instruction for each camper.

Bobby Hansen, former Bulls' guard and member of the 1992 NBA World Championship team, serves as the executive director of the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools. Under the direction of Hansen and George Shimko, director of basketball operations, the camps focus on basketball fundamentals and teamwork skills. Each child will receive a Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools gym bag, reversible jersey, t-shirt, basketball and graduation certificate.

"Nearly 3,000 young player attended camps during our inaugural year and had a great time learning about the game of basketball," said Hansen. "We are ready for our second year and promise this summer's campers will work hard but have a lot of fun."

As part of the Chicago Bulls continuing commitment to disadvantaged youth, the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools are partnering with the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago to sponsor several camps at "Y" sites in the city. Approximately 300 children will receive full scholarships to attend the sessions.

The following are summer camps to be offered in Lake County: Deerfield: July 24-28 at Berto Center 1; July 31-Aug. 4 at Berto Center 2; and Aug. 14-18 at Berto Center 3; Gurnee: July 31-Aug. 4 at Warren Township High School O'Plaine Campus; Lake Zurich: July 17-21 at Lake Zurich School District 95 facilities; Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills: July 24-28 at Mundelein Community Center; and, Lindenhurst: Aug. 14-18 at the Lindenhurst Health and Fitness Center.

For details, call (877) 552-8557 or go to the web site at www.nba.com/bulls/bulls_schools.html.

New coaches named at ACHS

At the Antioch Community High School District 117 School board meeting, three new head coaches were approved for the 2000-2001 school year. Don Zeman was approved as the head girls' basketball coach. Don is a former Sequoit athlete and served as the head boys' basketball coach in the late 1980s and early 1990s. Zeman moved on to the College of Lake County where he served as the head womens' basketball coach before returning to Antioch in 1995 as head girls' sophomore coach. He was voted area assistant coach of the year during this time period.

Jennifer Schultz was approved as the head softball coach. She will be replacing Steve Wapon who is retiring at the end of this school year. Schultz is serving as the assistant varsity softball coach at Mundelein High School. One of her responsibilities at Mundelein has been working with their pitchers.

Schultz will teach physical education at ACHS and will also assist Don Zeman with the girls' basketball program.

Jeff Moxley was approved as the head boys' golf coach. Moxley served as interim head coach last fall and coached the Sequoit's to the IHSA Regional Championship. Antioch also finished second in the North Suburban Conference. Moxley also serves as assistant softball coach for the Sequoits.

Defining Mom

By Tim O'Donnell
Staff Reporter

moth'er— 1. A woman who conceives, gives birth to, or raises and nurtures a child.

The concept seems simple enough. And in theory, The American Heritage Dictionary has accurately defined "mother." But, the phrase "raises and nurtures" is a little deceptive. In it lies a lifetime of love and caring, the daily responsibilities that go along with those emotions and the ups and downs of watching a child grow up.

Being a mother is not so much a job, but a full-time career. To be a qualified mother, one must be a chef, chauffeur, judge, lawyer, doctor, counselor, police officer and, in some households, zookeeper.

For someone who has never done it, the job sounds impossible. But since there have been people there have been mothers. And though the methods change from generation to generation, the goal of raising a child has always been the same.

While most people are lucky to be acquainted with their grandparents, the youngest members of one area family know their great-great-grandmother. The family has five generations of living members, and four generations of living mothers. Over those years, a lot has changed in the way the mothers raise their children, and a lot has stayed the same.

Four

family reflect on motherhood—
past and present

"It was wonderful," said Nancy Casolari on her experience as a mother. "I raised them the best I could. I was there for them when they needed me. I gave them my love and care."

Casolari married at the start of the Great Depression. Over the years, she has raised 12 children—no easy task by any stretch of the imagination. When she recalled her experiences, she always stressed the fact that the family always had the means to go on.

"I handled it pretty well," she said. "I had a wonderful husband who always provided for us."

Casolari resides in Mt. Prospect, but raised her children in Chicago. She explained that her husband's work in a butcher shop was the main reason why her family was able to survive. While her husband worked, she stayed home with the kids. In the house, Casolari said she was stern, but fair.

"We were strict, but just enough to keep them out of trouble," she said.

Nancy Thielsen, a resident the Fox Lake area, is the oldest of Casolari's children. She remembers her mother's strictness in a slightly different light.

"My parents—my father especially—were a lot stricter (than I was as a parent)," Thielsen said. "Their parents were raised in Italy, and in foreign countries; they were a

VACATION IN YOUR OWN BACKYARD

Lessons from the hole in the wall gang

One weekend, back when my oldest two boys were about nine and twelve years old, they were staying at their father's apartment when I received a frantic phone call from them.

"Mom..." sobbed Sean, the younger of the two. "Dad's not here and you have to come and get us. PLEASE, PLEASE!"

Note that this is not an accurate quote, due to the fact that Sean was crying so hard I couldn't understand him. In truth, it was more like "MOM xhsvsobbpqussniffle pekcoughp PLEASE" during the first few speaking attempts.

This worried me. I instantly imagined all sorts of horrible possibilities, especially when I realized they were home alone. Granted, they were old enough, but you never know what can happen.

Meanwhile, Sean was talking as coherently as a guest on Jerry Springer. I asked to speak to his older brother.

"Try to calm down, okay honey? Put Willy on the phone," I instructed.

After some muffled whispering on the other end, Willy got on the line.

"Mom? Please, PLEASE come and pick us up right away. We had a little accident and Dad's going to be really mad."

"What do you mean you had a little accident? Are you both all right? Is there bleeding? Should I call 911?"

"It's nothing like that, Mom, don't worry. But there's a big hole in the wall, and I don't know what Dad's going to do when he sees it. Please, Mom...can you come pick us up RIGHT AWAY?"

A big hole in the wall? My motherly BS detector suddenly kicked in. After all, I gave birth to these two, who often made Cain and Abel look like poster boys for sibling harmony.

Donna Abear

"Willy, were you two fighting?" "NOOOO, MOM. It was a complete ACCIDENT!"

Sure. So was Pearl Harbor. "An accident? Really. So how did it happen?"

"I know this is going to sound weird, Mom, but it's TRUE. I was taking a shower, and when I got out, I slipped on the wet floor, and fell, and my butt went right through the wall!"

He slipped and his butt went through the wall? Right. With a story like that, his nose was no doubt ready to poke a hole in the other wall. In fact, if the year had been 1999, he could have joined President Clinton's cabinet. Then we would have had two "slick Willys" in the White House.

I tried my best to get the real story out of him, but I couldn't break him. So I went for the easy mark. I asked to speak to the sobber.

Sean got on the phone again. Sobbing. "PLEASE, MOM...come and get us RIGHT NOW."

"Sean, tell me the TRUTH. Were you and Willy fighting?"

Unlike his brother, Sean was no "slick Willy." He was more like little Georgie Washington, which is why he quickly dropped the cherry tree axe on his own foot.

"Sob! YESSSS! We were fighting...sob, sob...and I pushed him...BIG SOB...and HIS BUTT WENT THROUGH THE WALL! Please, PLEASE come and get us, Mom. You can't leave us here. Dad is going to KILL US when he finds out!"

I had to fight to keep from laughing as I heard Pinocchio in the background moaning, "No, Sean...don't TELL her...noooo!" But he was too late. Now not only had Willy's butt gone through the wall, their two butts had just become grass. And they were terrified that Dad was going to do some lawn-mowing.

I knew better, of course. Their father reacted much more calmly to this sort of situation than he did to, say, an ice cube tray that the boys forgot to refill. I figured the worst they were in for was the sound of that lawnmower engine revving up.

So, hard as it was for me to ignore their pleas, I decided to leave them there to face their father.

As it turned out, their punishment consisted of "household chore chain gang duty," not the bloodshed their pre-pubescent minds imagined. And everyone learned a valuable lesson.

My sons learned to resolve their differences in a more acceptable manner (or maybe they avoided further detection by shoving their butts into less breakable surfaces).

Their Dad learned that cheap drywall is no match for a twelve year old's behind.

And I learned that sometimes the best thing a mother can do for her children is to let them learn a lesson the hard way.

After all, the world already has more than enough buttheads.

Arts & Crafts Adventure

Join the fun at the Ninth Annual Arts & Crafts Adventure, an arts and crafts show to be presented by American Society of Artists, a national membership organization, on the grounds of the Park Ridge Public Library, 20 S. Prospect (Prospect & Touhy), Park Ridge, Saturday, May 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Artists and crafters from throughout the Midwest will join with talented area artists to display a wonderful variety of work. There will be pen and ink works, wildflower collage, photography, watercolor paintings, fine metal crafts, woodcarvings, hand-crafted toys and jewelry and even hand-bound journals and photo albums, plus much more. Each of the many exhibitors will be happy to discuss their work with you. Art In Action will be included in the show with some of the exhibitors working and demonstrating at various times during the show. You will enjoy the opportunity to watch an artist as he works on his watercolor paintings, or a woodcarver or potter at work. Programs will be available free of charge, listing the exhibitors, their media, and showing their location in the show.

Among the exhibitors will be Jeff Wenzel, Lake Zurich; Paul Banick, Gurnee; and Diane Allen, Gurnee.

Celebrate International Museum Day

The Kenosha Public Museum will celebrate International Museum Day, Thursday, May 18. Stop by the Museum's current location at 5608 Tenth Avenue in Kenosha and enjoy refreshments and interesting exhibits during regular business hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. See "Building On An Idea," a new exhibit that looks at the history and vision that created a Museum during the midst of the Depression and brings us to building the first museum in Kenosha's history.

As always, admission to the museum is free and there is no charge for the reception. Advance reservations are not required. For more information call the Kenosha Public Museum at (262) 653-4140.

lot more strict. So they were raised with that kind of discipline. They tended to have the same type of discipline when they were parents. I think I eased up from that."

As the oldest child, Thielsen learned how to raise her own kids by helping her mother.

"I had to more or less help my mother. So it was like some of them were my kids, too. I think I just carried on from that," she said.

Like her mother, Thielsen has a large family—she raised nine kids through the 1950s and '60s. Though she was not so much concerned with the survival of her family, the love and devotion that her mother had in her family was passed on to Thielsen. She, too, stayed at home with her children, and volunteered at school and at church.

"We were kind of strict," she said. "They couldn't get away with a whole lot because I was there to watch everything. And what I didn't see, I found out from the neighbors."

She credits her own mother for providing her with a model for the qualities that make a good mother.

"She's always kind, thoughtful, a good listener. Now, she's a good friend," she said.

Thielsen explained that there is a 15-year difference between her oldest and youngest children. This means that for a time, she had nine kids in the house at once. To her, this was never a problem.

"You don't really stop to think about it. It's just like any job," she said. "You say 'well, gee, how do you do your job?' Well, you don't think about how you're doing it, you just do it. It's the same thing with raising the kids. You do it. You don't stop to think, 'gee, I can't do this.'"

The two mothers were both seeking the same goal—to provide the best for their children, both physically and morally. And although they approached this challenge similarly, there were differences in their mothering. But the these differences did not happen because of personal choices, but because of cultural restrictions. In the '30s, it was the norm for a woman's place to be in the home. But as society moved forward, women became accepted in the business world. Now, society has come to a point where women are not only accepted in the work place, but required.

"My dad was like the ruler of the household. It was a European-type home. The woman listened to the man, and he was the ruler," Thielsen said. "It's not that way in our household at all. I made sure of that. We have a mutual relationship."

Parenting responsibilities are shared more now than when Thielsen was bringing up her children. Thielsen's son, Jeff, and his wife, Cindy, have just had their second child.

Cindy Thielsen said that the modern mom plays a supportive and reaffirming role in her child's life.

"It's important to let your kids know that they are important to you and that you love them," Cindy Thielsen said. "I think we realize more now that it's important to spend quality time with our children."

The new mother said this sense can be instilled in her children by positive reinforcement.

"When my two-year-old comes home from the store with his father, I'm always waiting at the door to tell him I missed him," she said.

Although Cindy Thielsen's approach might be different, the goal is the same.

"I hope to teach them to be kind and fair with others, but also to stick up for themselves so others will be fair to them," she said.

No matter how they raised their kids, the three mothers agree that there is nothing more fulfilling than doing it. Even as Casolari and Nancy Thielsen become grandmothers, great grandmothers and great-great grandmothers, the miracle of being a mother never loses its luster.

"I'm so proud of them, they're all wonderful children," Casolari said. "We are all very close. I guess they're returning the love I gave them."

Thielsen said that from birth to adulthood, the sheer rapture of watching a child grow up never gets old.

"It's a joy. It's a complete joy to have that baby in your arms. You just look at it as a precious thing. It's beautiful," Nancy Thielsen said.

For Cindy Thielsen, this feeling has just been renewed. Her newborn came home after spending two weeks in the hospital.

"It's the best feeling in the world," Cindy Thielsen said. "I could watch him and the little facial expressions forever."

Cindy Thielsen added that this feeling lasts.

"That feeling doesn't die out. It gets stronger as they get older."

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Even though you want to speak your mind, keep your mouth shut during an argument between loved ones early in the week, Aries. This doesn't involve you; stay out of it. Your input only will make matters worse. A good friend invites you out late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be a good time.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Stand your ground when a business associate tries to blame his or her mistake on you. You have to explain how you aren't involved in the situation. If you stay calm, the higher-ups are sure to believe you. That special someone needs to talk. Be there for him or her.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

Patience is your key to success this week, Gemini. Don't try to force others to deal with a problem that you have. You simply must wait until they have the time to help you. Being too aggressive only will turn them against you. Sagittarius plays an important role on Wednesday.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Your sense of humor wins you praise from a close friend early in the week, Cancer. Your jokes help to lighten a tense situation and put everyone involved at ease. You should be proud of yourself. That special someone gets upset. Try to make this person feel better. Let him or her know that you are willing to listen.

Leo - July 23/August 23

A loved one turns to you for financial advice. While you want to help, don't venture into areas that are beyond you. You know that you're not qualified to answer this person's questions. Explain this to him or her, and try to find someone who can help. Your honesty will be appreciated.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

An acquaintance asks to borrow money early in the week. While you like to help people, don't be too eager in this case. This person isn't telling you the truth. Don't get involved in the situation; it only will cause you a lot of headaches. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you on Friday. Enjoy!

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let a close friend's problem ruin your day on Wednesday. He or she is exaggerating the situation. You know that this person is more than capable of handling this. So, don't lose sleep over it. Focus on yourself—you're in for a great week!

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You have an important financial decision to make early in the week, Scorpio. Don't make a hasty choice. This is very important. Take the time to look at all of the pros and cons, and talk things over with that special someone. The two of you will make the right decision together.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't beat around the bush when talking with a loved one about a personal problem. This person only can help you if he or she knows the truth. Opening up to him or her will help you to see the situation in a new light, and you can find a solution more easily. Capricorn plays an important role on Thursday afternoon.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

You have a lot on your plate early in the week, Capricorn. So, don't get distracted. A lot of important people are counting on you to get things done. Stay focused, and work diligently. Then, you'll make progress and be able to relax later in the week. That special someone has a surprise for you on Saturday. Enjoy!

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

It seems as if everyone wants your assistance this week, Aquarius. While you would like to help everyone, you can't. Get organized, and set your priorities. Then, you'll know whom to help and whom to tell no. If you try to be there for everyone, you won't end up helping anyone.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

A business associate turns to you for advice about a personal problem. While you don't want to get involved, you really should. This person needs to talk to someone. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

SPECIAL EVENT

Rosen Honda to host free Child Safety Day

To demonstrate its concern for the well-being of Lake County's youth and its appreciation for the support that it receives from the community, Rosen Honda will host its third annual free Lake County Child Safety Day event on Saturday, May 20, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Child Safety Day is a nationwide event held at over 650 Honda dealerships across the U.S. "This community event is designed to raise individual and community awareness, and to inform parents how they can better protect their children," said Saul Rosen, owner of Rosen Honda, located at 7000 Grand Ave., just a half-mile west of Gurnee Mills Shopping Center. "Last year we had more than 250 children and their families attend the event, and each one got a free photo ID containing vital information for locating missing children. We anticipate an even bigger turn-out this year, because parents understand the importance of having a current KidCare Photo ID and talking to their kids about personal safety."

All area residents with children are welcome to attend this free Child Safety Day event, which will offer the following services and information:

- Free KidCare Photo ID with height/weight and other vital information for locating missing children. Parents who have participated in past Child Safety Day events are encouraged to stop by to update their children's previous ID card with current photo, height/weight, etc.
- Rosen Motors-demonstrations on the proper use of vehicle child safety seats.
- Gurnee Fire Department-fire safety instruction.
- Mike's Bikes of Gurnee Inc.-bicycle safety demonstration.
- Gurnee Police Dept.'s D.A.R.E. unit-drug and gang awareness program.
- Provena/St. Therese & Victory Hospitals-child home safety tips, and general child nutrition and wellness information.
- Lake County Sheriff's Aquatic Rescue-boating safety presentation and displaying of jet skis/rescue boats.
- Gurnee Exchange Club-internet child/youth safety strategies.

Freckles the Clown will also be on hand to entertain children of all ages.

Rosen Honda's Child Safety Day is conducted in cooperation of the National Highway Safety Administration, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and Polaroid's Project Kid-Care.

Mark your calendars to attend this important event. For more information, call Rosen Honda's Nora Bryant at 623-7673.

THEATRE

Beginning May 12, the Bowen Park Theatre presents "Edward Albee's Seascape."

Set on a deserted beach, a middle-aged couple, relaxing after a picnic talk idly about home, family and their life together. They are later joined by two sea lizards who have decided to leave the ocean and come ashore. Soon both couples engage in a dialogue.

Performances begin Friday, May 12 and run May 13, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m. and May 14 and 21 at 3 p.m. Performances will be in Goodfellow Hall in the Jack Benny center for the Arts in Bowen Park, 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan, IL. For reservations, call the Jack Benny Center for the Arts at (847) 360-4741, or online at www.ticketweb.com.

'Bridge to Terabithia'

Christian Youth Theatre (CYT) presents an exciting musical production of "Bridge to Terabithia," the Newbery Medal award-winning book by Katherine Paterson.

Performances will be at the Christian Arts Auditorium, 2500 Dowie Memorial Dr., Zion. Matinees are at 2 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, May 20-21, 27-28. Evening performances are offered at 7 p.m. May 26-27. Tickets for reserved seating may be purchased in advance from the box office by calling 815/455-9207. The suggested ticket donation is $7 for adults and $6 for children 12 and under. CYT is also offering this same special $5 rate for all seats on Sunday, May 21, Friends and Family Day.

Special school day performances will be given at 9:30 a.m., May 19 and at 9:30 a.m. and noon on May 23-24.

'Moon over Buffalo' at Village Theatre

The Village Theatre of a Palatine Inc., is pleased to announce the final production of its 50th season, "Moon Over Buffalo" directed by Sally Moomey and produced by Larry Boller.

All performances are at Cutting Hall, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine. Performance dates are May 26-27, June 2-4, 9-10, 16-18. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. Sunday performances are matinees at 2:30 p.m. Reserved seating is available by calling the theatre box office at 358-2506. Tickets are $12.

"Moon Over Buffalo" is written by Ken Ludwig, who also wrote "Lend Me A Tenor" and was the hilarious show that brought Carol Burnett back to Broadway.

Archbishop of Chicago to speak at Barat College commencement

On Sunday, May 14, His Eminence, Francis Cardinal George, Archbishop of Chicago will speak at Barat College's commencement ceremony on the issue of globalization — its effects, what causes it, and what the Church can do to steer it in a new direction. A native of Chicago's northwest side, cardinal George was ordained a priest of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate. The pope appointed him Archbishop of Chicago on April 8, 1997 following the death of Joseph Cardinal Bernardin, and elevated him to the College of Cardinals in February of 1998.

Cardinal George dedicates much of his time to developing unity among Chicago's culturally diverse population. This educational philosophy mirrors the core values and the mission of Barat College and its founding congregation, the Religious of the Sacred Heart. Students are looking forward to the Cardinal's address to graduates. "I think having the Cardinal speak at graduation reminds us of our catholic heritage and what Barat is about," says Keri Anne Gura, a graduating senior.

Barat College, located in Lake Forest, is an independent, coeducational liberal arts institution in a catholic tradition that offers baccalaureate and select professional and graduate degrees.

Participants sought for international experience

American Intercultural Student Exchange Inc. (AISE) announced that families are being sought to host high school age exchange students from over 20 countries. Students arrive in August to live with American host families and attend the local high school for the 2000-01 school year. These young adults, 15-18 years old, are coming to learn about America and our customs while sharing the culture of their native countries with their host families, communities and schools. Students speak English, have their own spending money, medical insurance and the desire to participate as an active member of a host family.

Call AISE's toll-free number at (800) SIBLING or visit the AISE web site at www.aise.com to learn more about the benefits of hosting an exchange student.

HOT SPOTS

Thin storyline plagues action-packed 'Gladiator'

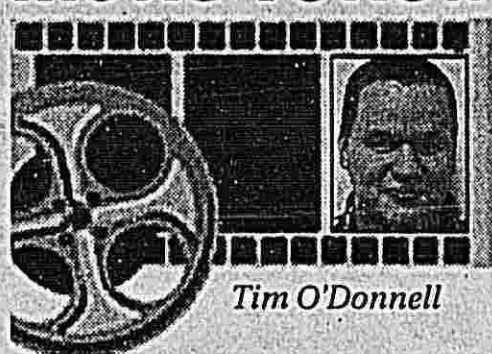

A good way to judge whether you are enjoying a movie or not is to count how many times the thought of "how long have I been in this theater?" crosses your mind. The more this thought enters the brain, the less the viewer is completely engulfed in what is happening on the screen. In Ridley Scott's new film, "Gladiator," this thought unfortunately crossed my mind on one too many occasions.

Going into the film, I had only a vague perception of what to expect. I had seen the trailers, which, as always, highlight the best sequences in the film and do not divulge much of the story. But in the case of "Gladiator," there really was not much story to be had after the halfway point.

The movie follows the story of Maximus (Russell Crowe), a Roman general who gains the respect of his soldiers through his bravery on the battlefield. Maximus is also beloved by Marcus Aurelius (Richard Harris), the dying emperor. Aurelius asks Maximus to succeed his throne instead of his own son, Commodus (Joaquin Phoenix).

When Aurelius tells his son of his plans, Commodus is obviously upset, and kills his father before his decision is publicized. Commodus takes the throne, and sentences Maximus and his family to be executed.

Though badly hurt, Maximus escapes his doom, but cannot return home in time to save his family. His heartbreak and injuries are too much for him to handle. He falls unconscious at his destroyed home only to be captured and imprisoned by a slave trader.

Maximus is sold to Proximo (Oliver Reed), who forces him to be a gladiator. At the same time, Commodus plans to win the support of the people by holding a series of gladiator games. After finding success as a gladiator, Maximus returns to Rome to participate in the games and to face Commodus.

The results of this scenario are fairly obvious. However, the movie drags on as it goes from this point to the logical conclusion. The storyline suffers because there is just not enough behind it to hold the audience's attention. Long stretches of repetitive dialogue are sprinkled with the gladiator action sequences that are highlighted in the trailers.

Scott also tries to get cerebral at times, using short flashbacks and arty camera work to try to get into Maximus's head. In a movie filled with bloody battles and political backstabbing, these scenes are out of place and should have been left on the cutting room floor.

The director also made a weird decision to have Maximus's son have a thick Italian accent while everyone else spoke in normal English. Though the boy only has one line, this decision causes a continuity problem, reminding the viewer that everyone else's accents are out of place.

"Gladiator" does have its moments, though. The city shots of Ancient Rome beautifully portray the city in all of its glory with the help of computer effects.

The fight scenes are also gripping, though short and few and far between.

Crowe also adds to the movie, giving another dimension to his character with his acting. This role, like all of his roles, is completely different from what he has done before. Even with a thin script, Crowe is able to flesh out his character, making the audience believe that Maximus can be both a loving father and cold-blooded killer.

But even Crowe and computer effects cannot save this movie from being bluntly dull and too long.

Though the storyline drags, the action and Crowe's performance make "Gladiator" worth seeing, or at least renting. I give it 3 popcorn boxes.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

Love conquers, or at least subdues, in Shakespeare's 'All's Well'

In a season punctuated with high notes, chalk up more of the same for Chicago Shakespeare Theater as it winds up the first season at its new Navy Pier home with perhaps one of its brightest productions yet, "All's Well That Ends Well."

Barbara Gaines has provided deft direction of this three-hour comic-and-stress filled romance, setting it in 1860 France and Italy and incorporating original music composed by Alaric Jans for some subtle notes to Shakespeare's sonnets.

In many ways, it's a troubling play. Bertram, the brash young nobleman, is forced into marrying Helena, the humble daughter of the late Count Rossillion's physician. He spurns her as beneath him because of his social class, stealing away from France to Italy and vowing not to accept her until she can procure a ring he always wears and bear his child—though they shall never share a bed.

Needless to say, Helena finds

away to meet the challenge, with the help of a darkened room for a tryst and a young maid more than willing to switch places with the spurned bride.

Timothy Gregory, in the role of Bertram, gets his comeuppance

(hence, the play's title) as the nobleman who will not abide having love forced upon him. Larry Yando, as Bertram's cowardly alter-ego Parolles, is in top form, simpering and sniveling to gain whatever advantage may come his way. Both pay the price vanity extracts.

Lia Mortensen is the triumphant Helena, but a reasonable question might be "Why go through all the trouble to pursue someone so obstinate?" The smirk on her face is priceless when the grateful king, his health improved by medications passed on to Helena by her father, says she may pick any eligible member of his court as a husband.

Meanwhile, Ronald Keaton brings delight as Lavatch, the knave and buffoon, whether he's singing, playing his harmonica or just prattling.

"All's Well That Ends Well," splendidly performed by a 22-member cast, will run through June 11.—By Tom Witom

Speaker offers thoughts on 'Respect'

Sociologist Sara Lawrence Lightfoot will share her ideas about respect in the modern world and how it applies to mothers and the mothering we all do, Sunday, May 14 at the Bradford Community Church, 5810 8th Ave., Kenosha. Infant care is available and liberal religious education classes meet concurrently. A social hour will follow the service. Call (262) 656-0544 for additional information.

Brookfield Zoo has a special Mother's Day offer

Hop to Brookfield Zoo and celebrate wonderful mothers of all kinds this Mother's Day by "adopting" the zoo's kangaroo moms for your mom.

Your $25 contribution to Brookfield Zoo's Parents Program will help the zoo provide expert care for the kangaroo moms and their joeys, a personal adoption certificate, a kangaroo fact sheet, a window decal and an invitation to Parents' Evening held at the zoo this coming August. A gift card with your personal message can accompany the package.

To adopt a kangaroo or any other animal for your mom this Mother's Day, call Brookfield Zoo's Parents Program at (708) 485-0263, ext. 341. The zoo is located at 31st St. in Brookfield, just 14 miles west of downtown Chicago. The zoo is accessible via the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I-290) expressways. For more information about Brookfield Zoo, visit its web site at www.brookfieldzoo.org.

Antiques & Collectibles Show

Hundreds of antique dealers from across the Midwest will be at the Lake County Antiques & Collectibles Show, Sunday, May 14 from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. This Mother's Day event is held both indoors and out at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Rtes. 45 and 120 in Grayslake.

General admission is $4 per adult. Children under 12 are admitted free. For those who just can't wait, early bird shopping begins at 6 a.m. with an admission price of $15. No matter what time you come, parking is always free and the bargains are good 'n' plenty.

For more information call 223-1433 or 356-7499.

Fundraiser for huskies to be held May 20

In an effort to help save the lives of abandoned, abused or injured Siberian huskies, Adopt A Husky Inc., a non-profit rescue group, is hosting its first annual "Husky Hike."

The hike is scheduled to be held at 9 a.m. on May 20 at Van Patten Woods Forest Preserve, Wadsworth.

The course set for the hike is approximately three miles long. Events for the morning include breakfast, lunch, raffles, obedience and agility demonstrations and an "Honoring the Dogs" ceremony. All owners of Siberian Huskies, Siberian Husky mixes or anyone interested in the effort to save the dogs are welcome.

Community members can help with the hike through donations, participating in the hike by walking one of the rescued dogs or volunteering for the day. Adopt A Husky Inc. also accepts year-round donations in the form of money, supplies, food, volunteer work (such as answering the phone) or providing foster care for a Siberian husky until a home can be found.

Adopt A Husky Inc. was founded in 1998 by a group of community members from the Wisconsin and Illinois areas. Lois Leonard, who leads AAHI's efforts, has owned huskies for more than 30 years. "I founded AAHI because I truly felt it was time to give back to the breed all of the wonder and joy they have provided me throughout the years," Leonard said.

To be a part of the hike, or for more information about Adopt A Husky Inc., please call (262) 909-2244 or contact AAHI through their web site at www.adoptahusky.com.

Native plant sale to be held

The Lake County Forest Preserve will be holding a native plant sale at Old School Forest Preserve on May 13 from 11:30 a.m.-4 p.m. The event will be held in shelters A and B at the forest preserve, located on St. Mary's Rd. south of Rte. 176 in Libertyville. For more information call 948-7750.

Habitat meetings slated

Habitat for Humanity Lake County will hold two Volunteer Orientation meetings for those interested in learning about the organization and its volunteer needs. The meetings will be held May 13 at 10 a.m., and May 16 at 7:30 p.m. at 315 N. Utica in Waukegan. For more information call 623-1020.

Anti-violence coalition

A Lake County anti-violence coalition will be holding a Community Collaboration meeting on May 18 from 7-9 p.m. at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

Sponsored by Lake County Unites for Violence Intervention and Prevention, the event will showcase violence prevention activities in the county. All private and public sectors of the county are invited to attend. The event is free and will be held in the college auditorium, C-005. For more information call 543-2274.

Scholarships offered

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Lake County is offering a scholarship to Lake County high school seniors who have been involved in the mentoring program or teen parent services for a least one year, within the organization. The scholarship awarded will be up to $2,000 depending on financial need. Submission deadline is May 31. Interested candidates should contact Linda Kuhn at 360-0771.

36-hour network cabling course

A fast-track course in network cabling will be offered by the College of Lake County from 5-8 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, June 5-30 at the Grayslake Campus.

"Network Cabling—The Physical Layer" (0843, VST 500-005) provides hands-on training to develop the skills needed to terminate, test and troubleshoot data, voice and video network wiring.

Class size is limited to 10 students. The tuition for the course is $106 and the student kit is $95. For more information on the program, contact Judy Waters at 543-2763.

Depression can be genetically inherited

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Cindy remembers the day her sister, Laura, went "off the deep end." A divorce request by Laura's husband triggered a depression so deep that she couldn't even care for her toddler daughter. Cindy attempted to help Laura pick up the shattered pieces of her life. Toward the evening of that memorable day, Cindy noticed an extreme change in her sister's depressed mood. Laura's eyes were shining and wild, and she began to talk fast. She kept running to the table to jot down notes, many of which were incomprehensible. She told Cindy over and over again that it was a "conspiracy." Everyone was trying to take her baby away from her. Her notes became grandiose plans to prohibit anyone from "stealing" her child.

PART TWO OF A SERIES

Exhausted from Laura's frantic ramblings and distracted actions, Cindy went to bed, praying that everything would be better in the morning. Her uneasy sleep was interrupted by Laura's appearance in her room in the early hours of the morning. Brandishing a kitchen knife and laughing maniacally, Laura whispered that "they" were in the house - "they" were going to try and take her baby. It took every ounce of courage for Cindy to appear calm, leading her paranoid sister through the house to find the baby snatchers. After standing by the sump pump for a couple of cycles, Cindy convinced Laura that the noises she heard were from the pump. However, the nightmare didn't end there. Laura insisted on calling their father to inform him that he would die in a car accident if he went to work that day. Next, she phoned another sister who was pregnant and told her that the baby was dead in the womb.

By the time Cindy and other family members got Laura to a hospital emergency room, they thought the nightmare had ended. Laura was perfectly lucid with the doctors and appeared to be back to normal. Little did they know that "acting" normal was part of the nature of her illness, which she has been battling ever since.

Although the names have been changed, this true story is a glimpse into the harrowing world of manic depression. Also known as bipolar disorder, this mental illness, caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain, is suffered by approximately 2.3 million adults nationwide. The disease, which is characterized by extreme shifts in mood, energy levels and functioning capabilities, is a disabling illness that can also be life threatening. According to the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), the world's leading mental health biomedical research organization, nearly 20 percent of bipolar sufferers who have not received effective treatment will commit suicide.

However, Dr. David Bawden, who is the clinical director of the psychiatric unit at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville, pointed out that even stabilized manic-depressives are not completely immune to suicide attempts.

that fact. Her daughter Dawn attempted suicide three times before she was diagnosed with bipolar disorder at the age of 14. Despite many years of treatment and medication, Dawn ended her life last year at the age of 27.

"The bottom just fell out for Dawn," said Gravdahl, who recalled her daughter's request, the week before her death, to just take some pills and die painlessly in her mother's arms. Gravdahl's attempts to

Mental health problems are pervasive

Mental illnesses have an intense effect on the way a person thinks, acts or feels. Those who suffer from a mental illness can find it to be extremely disruptive or destructive to their jobs, education, family and social life.

Mental illnesses affect as many as one in every five people regardless of age, sex or race. According to statistics, 4 percent of the country's population suffers from severe mental illnesses.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, over $150 billion is spent annually in the U.S. for the treatment, social service and disability payments, lost productivity, and premature deaths caused by mental illness.

The month of May has been designated Mental Health Month. Throughout the month, Lakeland Newspapers will continue a series of articles that portray various types of depression. Perhaps you will see yourself or someone you love in our stories, and seek the appropriate help needed to combat these life-threatening illnesses.

Teacher charged with child pornography

Diane Ross:
Accused of sending child pornography

The search warrant was carried out on May 3 at the home of Diane M. Ross, 45, of 138 East Witchwood Lane. Ross, who is married and the mother of two, is an associate professor in the English Literature dept. at the college. The search was a joint effort by investigators from the sheriff's office and the California officials advised Lake County officials that Ross had been sending child pornographic material to various target sites in California through her America On-Line (AOL) account. Ross used the screen

IIT first university to teach at Waukegan's University Station

With the College of Lake County (CLC) predicted by many to be the future site location for the proposed Multi-University Center, Lakehurst Mall redeveloper Martin Touhy has announced that the Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT), Chicago, will become the first university to offer courses at his proposed University Station in Waukegan.

Nineteen other schools of higher education also are in discussion with University Station management to offer classes, according to Jack Adams, education consultant for the new center.

IIT's initial offering is its manufacturing technology and management (MTM) certificate program. The three-course certificate program, which can be completed in a 12-month period beginning with the fall semester (August 2000), provides a stand-alone credential, as well as a building block for the bachelor of manufacturing technology and management degree.

The MTM certificate course is designed for individuals who want to improve management, supervisory

Waukegan courted by America's pastime

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Lake County residents may be able to embrace their own "Field of Dreams" in the near future, if Waukegan officials decide to step up to the plate and bring home a minor league ballpark.

According to Russ Tomlin, director of planning and zoning for Waukegan, city officials have been "exploring the possibilities" of a baseball stadium as a result of the interest of two minor leagues looking to expand to Lake County.

Representatives from the Ohio based Frontier League and the prospective Great Lakes League have been meeting with Waukegan officials to pitch their considerations for a feasible site.

Governor put in hot seat at CLC

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Gov. George Ryan may have preferred a pie in the face, after being put on the hot seat by almost half of the 50 people who threw questions at him during his seventh Regional Roundtable discussion at the College of Lake County (CLC).

Although Ryan joked about the pie fiasco that occurred after his first discussion in Carbondale, that event could be considered tame compared to the peaker power plant opponents who relentlessly asked him to put a moratorium on the plants.

"We would like to ask you to work with us and stop issuing permits for peaker power plants until the laws are worked out," said Susan Zingle, executive director of the Lake County Conservation Alliance.

Zingle's comments opened the floodgates for people who came as far as Aurora to protest the noise and damage to air quality that the peaker plants are said to emit.

Ryan maintained that he did not have the authority to issue a moratorium, telling the protesters repeatedly that "the system works, but you have to pass legislature before things can get done."

"It's not good enough for you to say you have no authority here," stated a Grayslake resident. "I voted for you—take some leadership in this issue."

"You voted for me as a governor, not a dictator," retorted Ryan. "I cannot pass a magic wand and tell them (peaker plant owners) they can't build here."

Ryan urged the protestors to meet with their local and state representatives. He noted that it was up to local governments to pass ordinances prohibiting the building of peaker power plants. He assured the speakers that he would work with state legislators to pass a law that would give him or the General Assembly more control over the plants.

Other issues brought forth at the roundtable discussion included special education and needs programs, higher education "abstinence" and "sexually transmitted disease" programs, property taxes, riverboat casino operations and the Rte. 53 extension proposal. Several just voiced their thanks and commendations for programs and grants approved by Ryan.

Lake County Board member

Larry Leafblad (R-Avon), asked the governor for his help in imposing uniform school impact fees. Leafblad told Ryan that residents in Grayslake are being forced out of their homes by high property taxes. He pointed out that state legislature failed to enable the county board to act on anything other than "brick and mortar" in unincorporated Lake County.

"This is a problem the state should address," admitted Ryan. "State legislators should work together with the county board on this issue."

Lakehurst Mall redeveloper Martin Touhy threw in his 2 cents worth by asking Ryan to support a state university location at his proposed University Station. Ryan told Touhy that it was up to the Illinois Board of Higher Education to approve the request.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) made one comment about the endless discussion on peaker power plants.

"They (the plants) must be thoroughly researched before being permitted. Now give us a 10-minute break because everyone is bursting at the seams," she quipped.

CLC NOTES

Girls' soccer camp

Two soccer camps for girls in grades three through eight will be held at the College of Lake County's Grayslake Campus from June 12-16 in the physical education center (building seven). The morning session, which will meet from 9-11:30 a.m., is for girls in grades three to five, and the second session, which will meet from noon-2 p.m., is for girls in grades six to eight.

The camps will be directed by CLC soccer head coach Dave Beck and assistant coach Becky Kirby, with assistance from members of CLC's 1999 women's team, which ranked in the top 15 in the nation. During the camp, players will learn offensive and defensive strategies and play at least two games each day with equal playtime for each player. Campers will have a chance to win prizes by participating in a variety of shooting and dribbling contests.

The cost is $75 per person, which includes daily instruction, games, a camp t-shirt, and soccer ball for each camper. Enrollment is limited, so early registration is advised. The registration deadline is May 31. For information and to receive an application form, call 543-2046.

Fiber Optics 16-hour course

"Introduction to Fiber Optics: The Physical Layer" (VST 501-003), a hands-on training course covering the installation of fiber optic network wiring and cabling, will be offered by the College of Lake County this summer. CLC has been designated as a certified training facility by C-Tech Associates, Inc., and Lucent Technologies, leaders in communications networking.

The four-week course will be held from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on June 10-July 1 at the Grayslake Campus. Students will learn to install and test ST-II fiber optic connectors on fiber optic cables. Upon completion of the course and a certification test, students will be certified by C-Tech Associates, Inc. Interested students must have completed a network cabling or similar course, or have comparable work experience.

The class size is limited to 10 students, so early registration is advised. The tuition for the course is $53 and the student kit is $195. For complete information, call Judy Waters at 543-2763.

spot for the ballpark proposal. Although Tomlin said the city is looking at other locations which may also prove to be conducive to a successful stadium, he noted that the proposed Lakehurst University Station would offer a variety of after-game entertainment options for ballgame patrons. The I-94 Tri-State tollway and a future commuter train station also make Lakehurst a more attractive location in terms of transportation access.

"We've got to put it in the right place so we can get a lot of direct and indirect spin-off," said Tomlin, who noted that city officials will be spending a lot of summer time visiting other ball parks.

Tomlin said Waukegan is not limiting its options to Frontier and Great Lakes.

"Great Lakes is impressive in a big way, but their stadium proposal is expensive ($15-20 million)," stated Tomlin.

Jerry Clarke, vice president and general manager for Frontier's Cook County Cheetahs in Crestwood, claims that his league can build a beautiful ballpark for less than half of what the Great Lakes league is proposing.

Tomlin said funding for the proposed ballpark would probably come in the form of intergovernmental partnerships, and possible sponsorship from area corporations such as Abbott Laboratories. Grants and private donations would be another source. The municipality would own the stadium and share the revenues with the league.

"We are currently researching bonding and financial issues," commented Tomlin.

Great Lakes League co-founder Sherri Myers is also looking at the possibility of establishing a stadium in North Chicago. She and her husband own the Lansing Lugnugs out of Lansing, Mich.

The proposed stadium would provide accommodations for 3,500 to 6,000 patrons. It would also include a picnic area with accommodations for up to 1,500 and surface parking. Tomlin noted that the stadium could be used on off nights for events like Little League championships, and concerts.

"It is conceivable that we can see something within two years," said an optimistic Tomlin.

Gail Svendsen, president of the Lake County Bureau of Tourism, is thrilled with the idea.

"This would provide a wholesome, affordable activity not only for our residents, but for visitors throughout the region," she enthused. "It would be a definite opportunity to showcase Lake County as a destination."

"If they get me a minor league, my sales director Court Carlson will wear their team jerseys at all of his trade shows," promised Svendsen.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Indeck disputes noise level findings

Libertyville—The proposed peaker power plant was further discussed at Marytown in Libertyville, as Indeck Energy Services attorney Gerald Callaghan questioned the findings of engineer Howard Schecter.

Indeck is proposing the construction of a 300 megawatt power plant at Rte. 137 and Harris Rd.

Schecter was hired by a group representing the Prairie Crossing development in Grayslake, which sits adjacent to the proposed site. He informed the Libertyville Plan Commission that there would be less sound impact if the plant were built in downtown Libertyville, rather than the proposed site. According to his findings, there will be more sound impact at the Harris Rd. location due to lower levels of background noise.

Callaghan directed a series of questions toward him, frequently referring to Schecter's own documents. He then attempted to show that Schecter has a lack of experience working with peaker power plants.

Indeck has reapplied for a construction permit from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, after the initial one had expired. A decision is expected by the end of May or early June.

False alarm blamed on computer error

Gurnee—A hazardous material spill alert that went out across Gurnee's emergency broadcast system is being blamed on a computer error, according to Commander Jay Patrick of the Gurnee Police Department.

Patrick said that during the inclement weather on May 8 at around 3:30 p.m., the village received word from the National Weather Service that there was a tornado watch in effect for the Gurnee area. But the computer malfunctioned at returned to its default settings.

What was broadcast was a hazardous materials emergency alert. The message, which was broadcast over the system's voice-capable loud speaker, advised Gurnee residents to seek shelter and shut all doors and windows.

Soon after the incident happened technicians from Whelen Industries, the company that installed the alert device, ran a complete check the system to try to figure out why the computer malfunctioned.

"Talking to the engineers from Whelen, they have no concrete answer why it occurred, nor do they have any record of it ever occurring in any other of their systems," Chief Fred Friedl of the Gurnee Fire Department said.

Governor announces road work plans

Grayslake—Grayslake area residents, politicians and business people heard Gov. George Ryan announce road work to be completed in and around Grayslake this year.

Ryan told those gathered at the Country Squire May 9 that the road project currently underway at the intersection of Rtes. 120 and 45 was made possible by funds from Illinois First, a $12 billion project designed to improve infrastructure, roads, schools and transit over the course of five years.

"We've been able to reach counties all over the state (with Illinois First)," Ryan stated. "Traffic congestion was identified as one of the major problems ... and it's time that we did (make improvements)."

The state took the traffic complaints seriously, said Ryan, and in turn, funds were allocated for relief.

Regarding the intersection at Rtes. 120 and 45, Ryan said, "We've already begun to work on making some improvements on the intersection." He noted that the project is currently about 10 percent complete. The project is expected to be completed in October.

Three resign from District 34

Antioch—Resignations were accepted from two Antioch Elementary District 34 administrators and District 34 Superintendent Dr. Daniel Burke following a special board meeting.

Burke has announced that he has been awarded a position as the new superintendent in Oxford, Conn. He will vacate his position officially on June 5, and begin his new assignment on

Burke will lead the effort to build a new high school in Oxford, half way between Boston and New York.

Paul Hain has accepted the position of business manager for Lake Bluff School District 65 effective July 1.

Hain's 26-year tenure in Antioch included positions as principal and business manager.

Deborah Kerr resigned her position as principal at Antioch Upper Grade School to become the new superintendent/principal of Wilmot Grade School District in Wilmot, Wis. This will be Kerr's first superintendent position.

Winning lotto ticket sold in Lake Zurich

Lake Zurich—Lake Zurich may soon have a reason to change its nickname from "Alpine Village" to "we beat the odds."

The town has one location where one of two winning Big Game lottery tickets were sold for the May 9 drawing. It is the largest winner ever in the U.S. for the Big Game Lottery. The location where the ticket was purchased receives a 1 percent bonus.

"The individual or group has not come forward, but we can say one of the two locations where the winning tickets was sold was in Lake Zurich," Lori Montana, Lottery director, said at a Wednesday morning news conference.

The total jackpot reached upward of $366 million in the seven-state region. For a single winner, that could mean $180 million. The other winning ticket was purchased in suburban Detroit.

"I think I will pay some bills and have a party with the associates," John Sweeney, owner of Sweeney Oil Co., said.

Lottery officials presented Sweeney with a check for $1.8 million as his share.

Volo, Fox Lake may share services

Volo—Fox Lake and Volo trustees discussed regional planning benefits as a proposed business park development seeks approval in Volo.

Volo Village Board authorized its engineers, Manhard and Associates, to meet with representatives from Fox Lake to discuss further details. Fox Lake Village Board is expected to consider the matter May 15.

Volo is proposing a lift station to serve its southern corridor. This comes as Prime Development is preparing plans for the a 160-acre commercial development off Rte. 12.

Fox Lake Mayor James Pappas urged Volo to consider Fischer Estates, an unincorporated area, in their planning.

New post office site recommended

Grayslake—The site review committee for the U.S. Postal Service has recommended property for the new Grayslake Post Office.

The land, located on Commerce Dr., southeast of the Piggy Wiggly on Center St., is 7.15 acres, said Grayslake Postmaster Jim Bailey. The plans for the new facility are already in the works, he reported.

"We're really starting to move along," he commented. The projected completion of the new facility is September 2001. Bailey believes construction should begin later this year.

Two busted for cannabis at school

Round Lake—Two Round Lake High School juniors were arrested during a surprise police drug sweep on May 4.

Ten officers, armed with six K-9's, carried out locker and parking lot searches at the high school. According to Round Lake Police Chief Charlie Foy, a dog tracked down marijuana in a student's van. Officers were able to locate the individual, who allowed them to conduct a vehicle search. During that time, they confiscated the substance.

Officers obtained the second student, who after seeing the police attempted to throw two bags of marijuana into a bush, Foy said. "A teacher saw him."

Both students were charged with unlawful possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor offense. They were later released on a signature bond, Foy said.

Planning, village boards discuss future

Lake Villa—In stating the purpose of a joint meeting between the Lake Villa Board of Directors and the Lake Villa Plan Commission, village trustee Bill Effinger said, "We want to avoid the situation that we had recently, when someone said that, according to our comprehensive plan, a developer applying for zoning didn't have small enough lots."

The meeting was part of the current process of reviewing and revising zoning rules and the village's comprehensive development plan.

Village land planner Lane Kendig stated that a review board, staff or consultants would be needed to deal with the issue of monotony in new construction. Kendig's suggestions for eliminating the "monopoly board" appearance of new subdivisions involved paying attention to both the appearance of the facade and the placement of the building on each lot.

Kendig noted that computer systems are available that would allow the village to track the use of variations such as types of garages used, lot sizes and setbacks.

Smart building curbs gridlock

Predictably, Illinois Div. of Transportation Director Kirk Brown had warm words for the controversial extension of Rte. 53 when he appeared on a panel addressing Lake County traffic problems.

Aside from an endorsement of a highway construction proposal now in its fourth decade, Brown offered some interesting observations to alleviate gridlock, interesting more so because of his audience, which included members of the Lake County Home Builders Assn.

Brown outlined three proposals to eliminate the costly and nerve-racking prime-time crawl across the county directly related to growth and development. Under the heading of "smart development," the director urged easing up in demands for more entrances on arterials as a direct remedy for congestion; Brown called for more inter-connected developments where trips can be negotiated without entering a highway. He called for builders and developers to work with public transportation agencies to design "transit friendly" developments.

Well put, indeed. Brown also emphasized better utilization of existing highways through construction of turn lanes and computerized signals, and, of course, increased funding. He noted that between 80 and 90 percent of monies allocated by the state for highway purposes go for maintenance. That explains, in a nutshell, why there is so little new highway construction in Illinois.

Brown's message was clear. Intelligent planning and building can go a long way toward easing gridlock. No additional funding involved in this process, for sure. We hope the director's words didn't go unnoticed by the industry leaders who have it within themselves to ease gridlock.

Old phones getting new life for women

Members of the Illinois Conference of Women Legislators are part of a nationwide drive to collect one million used wireless phones to benefit victims of domestic violence. State Reps. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) and Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) have been especially active.

Called "Donate a Phone," the campaign will provide for preprogramming emergency numbers for phones that will be distributed to victims of domestic violence in order to access help. A Lake County company, Motorola, is a co-sponsor of the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, which is spearheading the campaign.

Male legislators can also belong to the Conference of Women Legislators. Members work to advance interests of Illinois women, especially economic independence.

New or used, every wireless phone will be used, either as is or recycled to raise funds for endangered women. Help is on the way for the 5,000 women who become victims of domestic violence every day.

Partners tackles work place woes

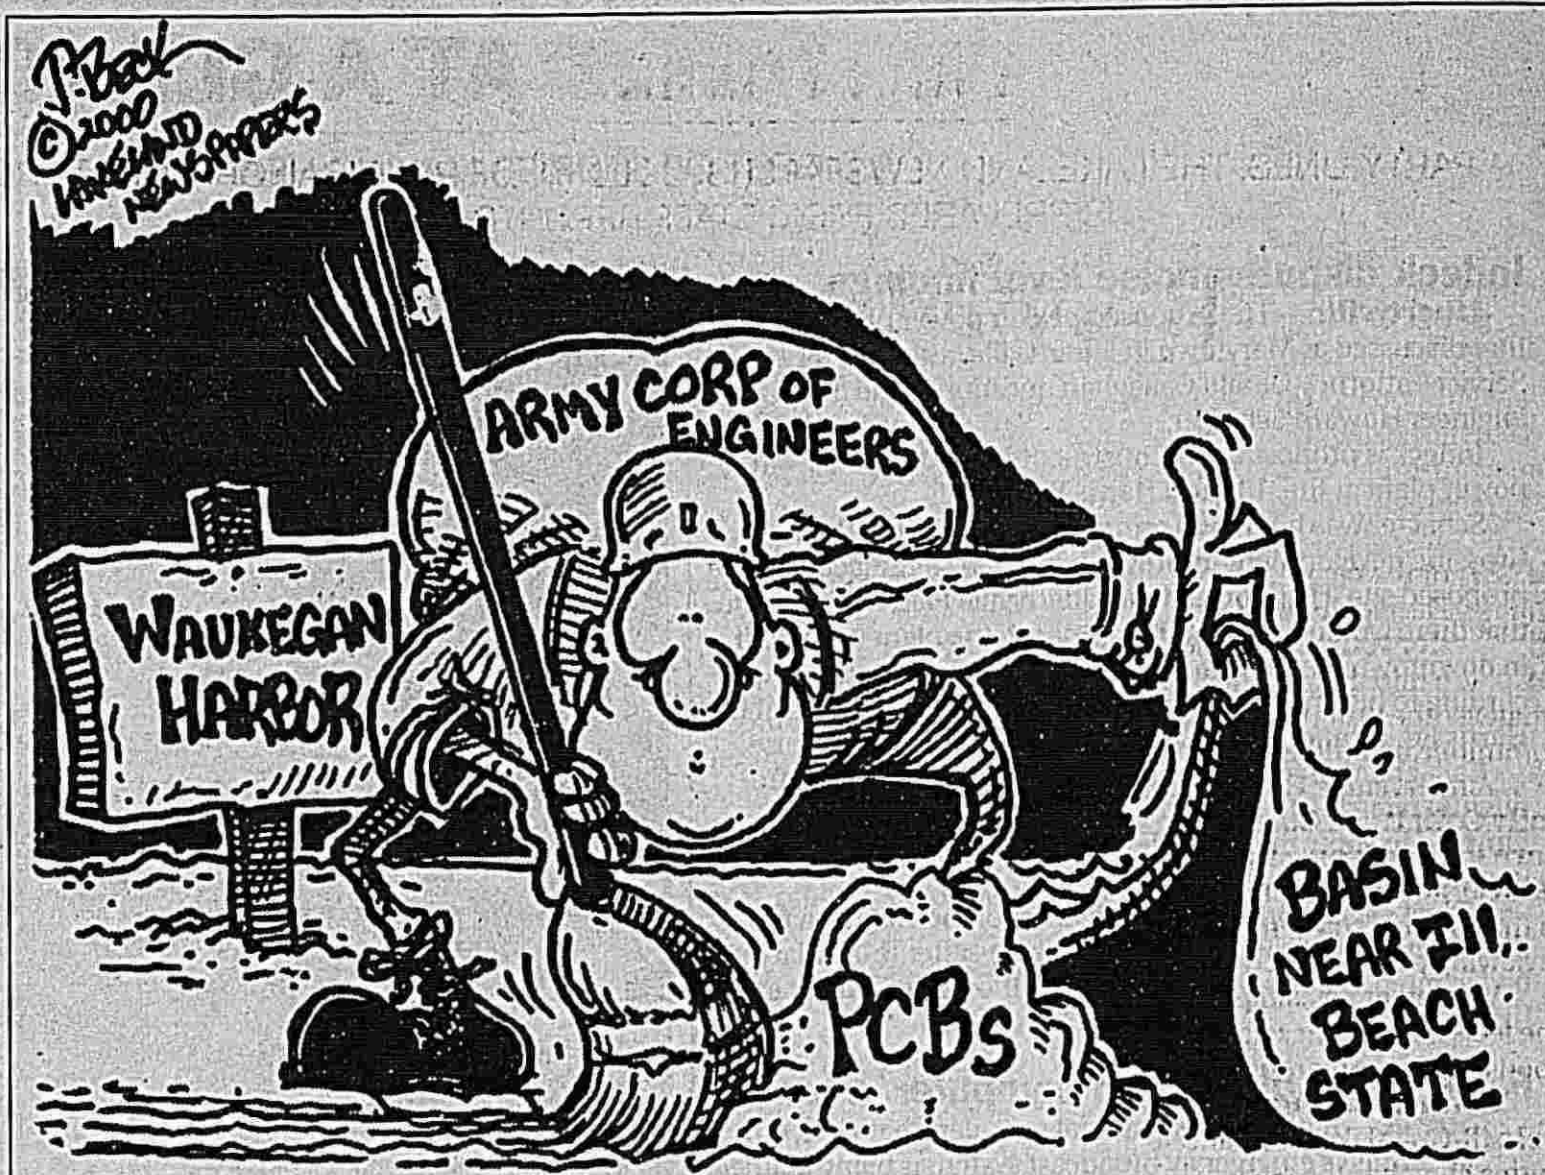

Even in a locality where business is booming and the job market is so tight thousands of good paying positions go unfilled, improving the economy is serious business for Lake County Partners, a private non-profit organization.

For one thing, Lake County Partners is acutely aware of an imbalance of economic diversity that is tilted heavily toward residential housing. Since 1981, industry has slipped badly, ranging between 5 to 10 percent of the Lake County economy. President David Young says a more beneficial mix would be residential capped at 70 percent with commercial ranging less than 20 percent and industry attaining a solid 10 percent or better.

Elevating industry's role would achieve the goal of enhancing tax revenues to provide the financial fuel that drives attainment of an attractive community.

As a spin off of the Lake County Economic Development Commission, Partners has become less political and more policy oriented. Currently, Partners is pushing initiatives to help business and industry solve work force problems. According to Young, priorities are recruiting/hiring, training, fringe benefits and day care/elder care.

Never out of sight when work force issues are examined are Lake County's twin bugaboos, improving transportation and providing attainable housing. Partners isn't alone in grappling with these gorilla-sized problems, standing on the premise that government alone can't solve everything.

VIEWPOINT

Child's game: simply T-eriffic

Inaugurating the T-ball season didn't exactly sound like a blood-rushing event, but there was a persuasive salesman beckoning: Grandson John.

So there I was, breaking in a new folding camp chair and seated behind the opposing Marlins bench. Even with John and his Cubs teammates on the opposite side, I had the preferred vantage point. No squinting with the sun at my back and a swirling breeze was blowing diamond dust in the opposite direction.

There is an eerie similarity between T-ball and the major league variety. The youngsters and pro-ball counterparts all swing from the heels. There were collisions in the outfield, defensive lapses galore, lots of running and off-target throws. For a moment, I thought I was at Wrigley Field.

For beginning T-ball, teams contain both boys and girls. With oversize caps and protective helmets, there's no gender distinction. The enthusiasm of players, coaches and fans was infectious. I started having a good time right away. No score is kept. Every player bats every inning. Outs are immaterial. After every player gets a whack at the tee, sides change.

The game is not without peril. Moms put expensive nail treatments in harm's way to snag errant tosses. Dads have to keep fragile egos in check when a ball shoots through their offspring's legs. Some of the cheering grandparents look strangely familiar. They turn out to be parents of players we remember 25-30 years ago, the teammates of our own children.

After four fun-packed innings, play is halted. Grinning 5 and 6-year-olds charge out for the traditional high-five walk across the infield and return to the bench for a welcome snack of ice cold pop and cookies.

So, I survived the first T-ball game of the season, happy and surprised the game ended so soon. What's not to like when your grandson goes three for four with two line shots through the pitcher's box and a looping home run that reached the fence?

Misery shared

Chief Executive Miles White, of

BILL SCHROEDER

Abbott Laboratories is a good example why CEO's have short tenures these days. In his second annual meeting since taking over Jan. 1, 1999, White was roughed up badly by retirees and stockholders who saw their Abbott stock shrink more than 20 percent in the past year. White displayed a sense of humor responding to a complaint about "worthless options."

He dead-panned in reply, "My options aren't worth anything, either."

Speed impresses

Lake County officials came away impressed after seeing a presentation on how a midwestern high-speed rail loop will benefit this locality. Federal transportation planners foresee an 11-city, seven state link. Sharp-eyed County Board members quickly spotted a flaw. No stop in the county. That has since been corrected. Rail experts in Washington tried to pawn off a Lake-Cook Rd. stop as filling the bill. "No, no," cried our representatives. "That's really Cook County."

Intriguing as high-speed trains sound, proposals really represent "back to the future" thinking. A half century ago, Lake County had daily high speed commuter service virtually around the clock. The old Chicago, Milwaukee and North Shore Railroad—the North Shore Line—was convenient and fast. The famed Electroliner regularly exceeded 100 mph on the four times daily runs between Chicago and Milwaukee. The Electroliner stopped at Edison Court station, Waukegan. Other North Shore trains weren't quite as fast, but could reach 75 mph on open stretches.

Most of the county officials were in rompers when the North Shore folded in 1964 due to bad management. The need for rail commuting existed then and still does today.

Nurse on duty

Oops. This column stands corrected. In commenting recently on medical professionals serving on the Lake County Board, we overlooked Loretta McCarley (R-Wadsworth), who is a registered nurse and holds down a regular emergency room position. Our apologies. McCarley is a strong voice for open space and controlled growth and a fine addition to county government.

Violence scorned

Readers have long memories. I received a scolding for comments last year supporting the Wauconda Rodeo, one of the county's top summer attractions. The subscriber apparently is an animal rights activist. The same reader also expressed dismay over an observation that poison peanuts sometimes are used to control pesky and disease-carrying squirrels. The reader views the column comments as fostering violence in society, bad examples for our children.

Fighting cancer

The Chicago Bears are opening Halas Hall Friday, June 2, for a dinner-dance in observance of the 10th anniversary of Among Friends, the Lake Forest Hospital cancer support organization. There will be guided tours of the office and practice facility at 6:30 p.m. Froggy's of Highwood will be catering dinner. Open to the public, individual reservations are available for $150 each and can be obtained by contacting the hospital.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Recorder satisfied but will take raise

For the record, Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer isn't bucking for a raise in pay. She'll take whatever the County Board finance committee recommends.

Vanderventer, Circuit Clerk Sally Coffelt and Coroner Barbara Richardson, all bracketed at $84,690, are due for bumps this year in the county's staggered system of reviewing pay of elected officials.

Vanderventer said publicly that she feels her current salary is "very good and fair." Smart politics.

Count Board Rep. Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake) as finance committee chair has the responsibility of reviewing salaries. For their own part, County Board members are icy cool about their own compensation which will stair-step up to $30,000 next year, a $1,000 increase, in the system of staggered raises depending on the year of election.

Topsy turvy

Environmentalists figure officials of Lincolnshire live in a topsy turvy world. They levied a record $3,000 fine against a couple for cutting down a tree in violation of village ordinances while at the same time they have laid waste to trees in Florsheim Woods in the name of prairie restoration.

Norway's voice

Paul S. Anderson, who came to Lake County 11 years ago, is Norway's new honorary consul general in the U.S., appointed by King Harald. There are a reported 400,000 persons of Norwegian ancestry in Illinois. Anderson and his wife are the parents of two daughters. They reside in Lake Forest.

Mary Ellen Vanderventer: Isn't bucking for pay raise

Sandy Cole: Heads committee responsible for salary reviews

Afternoon tea?

For one day only, the "G" in GLMV Area Chamber of Commerce will stand for Gurnee. That's because Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton has been booked as a special guest for the annual "Ask the Mayors" luncheon Tuesday, May 16, at Mundelein Holiday Inn.

For a number of years, the luncheon was a three-way event. Last year the speaker's list grew with the addition of Green Oaks. Now this year there will be five mayors competing for the spotlight. Maybe afternoon tea will be served to refresh attendees bearing up under the lengthy list of speakers.

Previously seen

There are some familiar faces in the field of 21 lawyers who have filed applications to fill two associate judge vacancies in the 19th Judicial Circuit covering Lake and McHenry counties.

Republican Joel Gingliss of Highland Park, who became an assistant state's attorney after an unsuccessful race for state representative, is on the list. The elusive Antioch attorney, Robert Morton, who unsuccessfully campaigned for a supreme Court nomination, has signed up. Atty. Jay Ukema of Wadsworth, once Lake County Democratic chairman, has signified a desire to become a judge.

Sitting Circuit Court judges have the final say. Vacancies arose through the elevation of Associate Judges David Hall and Christopher Starck. Hall also is a Republican nominee for a full-term election to the Circuit in the November election.

And listen to me!

One senior resident commended students on their athletic achievements at the Grayslake Elementary District 46 School Board meeting May 1. She then turned and chastised their parents at the standing-room only meeting for not showing any other interest in the board's meetings, which are usually attended by the same 10 or so residents.

Celebrating the art of Momspeak

Way back when I was a little rascal and my mother grew weary of my whining she would say, "That's enough! I don't want to hear another peep out of you!"

And, of course, I would respond with, "Peep."

When I related this to three of my friends, each of them raised his eyebrows and nodded. As children they had done the "peep" dialogue with their moms.

Certain things that through the years all mothers say to their kids, for which I am now inventing the term Momspeak, have become a jargon in their own right.

Such as:

"Don't wear underwear with holes in them. If you get in an accident people will wonder what kind of home you come from."

"You just wait until your father gets home!"

When Mom was getting ready to go out and we would ask where, she would say, "Crazy, want to come along?"

Also from almost every mom: "You can love a rich man just as well as a poor one." (Which reminds us of Roseanne's sitcom advice to her daughters: "Someday you'll meet a man who will make you the happiest woman in the world. But, of course, you can never let him know that!")

Here's another line almost every mother has in her repertoire: "Just wait till you have kids — boy, the trouble they're going to give you!" (As comedienne Brett Butler says, "The reason I never want to have children is I don't ever want to experience that much ingratitude.")

Following are amusing quotes by comedians and other social commentators that may help us put our precious upcoming Mother's Day in proper perspective:

Mae West: "His mother should have thrown him away and kept the stork."

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

Richard Lewis: "My mother always phones me and asks, 'Is everything all wrong?'"

Quentin Crew: "Children despise their parents until the age of 40, when they suddenly become just like them, thus preserving the system."

Bill Cosby: "Parents are not interested in justice, they are interested in quiet."

Lionel Kauffman: "Children are a great comfort in your old age, and they help you reach it faster, too."

Martin Mull: "Having children is like having a bowling alley installed in your brain."

Robert G. Ingersoll: "It takes a hundred men to make an encampment, but one woman can make a home."

One of the finest tributes to moms, almost needless to say, came from the late, great columnist Erma Bombeck. Here's a paragraph from her classic "Mother's Day Column."

"When the Good Lord was creating mothers he gave them three pairs of eyes. One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones in front so that she can look at a child when he goofs and say, 'I understand and I love you' without so much as uttering a word."

Now it's time for me to end this ode to our mothers, but I would like to sneak in one more word:

"Peep."

GUEST COMMENTARY

James M. Sheehan

State representatives recently caved to the whims of the teachers' union's in denying funding for mandates for non-governmental/religious schools in the last state budget session just concluded. This year's state budget will spend 53 percent of new state revenue on government education (translating into $330 million more than last year's budget for elementary and secondary schools and $130 million for higher education). Even with this windfall, along with pension improvements for union teachers, the teachers' union's still went ahead and mounted a massive lobbying effort to deny $12 million to non-government/religious schools.

The main contention of the teachers' unions was that it was unconstitutional. This is dubious at best because two other states, Ohio and New York, have mandate funding for non-government schools in the range of $200 per student. This argument may also have a small scent of anti-Catholicism attached to it as some anti-school choice advocates point to a section of the state constitution that should be an embarrassment for anyone who knows the history of this type of legislation, commonly referred to as a "Blaine Amendment."

When Catholic immigrants started to stream into America during the mid-1800s, they found that most public schools were Protestant in nature. In face of this, they sought funding for their own schools and immediately ran into opposition from the Protestant majority. In stepped Republican James G. Blaine and the Know-Nothing Party who sought to have congress adopt a position of non-funding to stem the growth of the Catholic parochial system. The measure failed federally, but half the states introduced this measure into their state constitutions. The Arizona Supreme Court recently declared that their "Blaine amendment was a clear manifestation of religious bigotry, of a crusade manufactured by the contemporary Protestant establishment to counter what was perceived as a growing 'Catholic menace.'" "Our own state of Illinois has taken measures to correct this situation as evidenced by their past support of funding for all schools in such areas as textbooks, transportation and technology."

A compelling legal argument for funding non-government schools was the Illinois case of Dunn vs. Chicago Industrial School for Girls (280 Ill. 613 (1917)). Here, the juvenile court of Cook County was permitted to send dependent girls to various private institutions for their care, many of which were religious in nature. The state paid $15 per month to many of these religious institutions for the care and support of these girls. In a suit to stop redirection of such payments to religious organizations, it was shown that the cost of similar care in a government institution was $30. The court upheld this arrangement based on the fact that there was no "aid" to an institution where the value of services rendered was greater than the usual cost, in this case, $15 versus $30.

Putting aside the past histories and the dry legalities, the cultural and educational matrixes of the 19th century have changed. Government schools will always be needed and must be supported. But our future educational matrix must allow for other systems to evolve, whether it be private educational systems, religious educational systems, or home school systems.

This new educational matrix will bring forth a more diversified and inventive landscape verses the current dead h and of governmental monopoly. Freedom and the inalienable right of parents to pick what educational system is best for their child would replace the current monopoly that exists today and is often protected by those who have a self-interest at stake. By allowing educational and religious freedom via school choice, we can achieve this equitable and noble goal. For those who would deny such a basic freedom, even though it would cost themselves and other taxpayers less, would do well to re-examine their conscience and their true intent.

Antioch resident James Sheehan is a volunteer school choice coordinator (Captain) for the Catholic Archdiocese in northern and central Lake County.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dissection is barbaric

This is in response to Dr. Sherri Singer's column (May 5) opposing dissection.

Lakeland readers should know that Illinois House Bill 3254 (The Dissection Alternatives Act) is awaiting Governor George Ryan's signature. This bill would give elementary and high school students the right to refuse to observe or perform dissection and to elect an alternate assignment without being penalized.

Animal dissection is archaic, barbaric and useless. Prestigious medical and veterinary schools (i.e., Tufts, University of California at Davis, Stanford, Yale, Texas A&M) recognize the superiority of non-animal alternatives (computer models, synthetic tissue, etc.) in the training of doctors and veterinarians.

To spare grade school and high school students the grisly and useless experience of dissecting animals and to stop the unnecessary sacrifice of animal life, urge Governor Ryan to sign House Bill 3254 into law. Phone: (217) 782-6830, e-mail: Governor@state.il.us, or write: Governor George Ryan, 207 Statehouse, Springfield, IL 62706.

DEPRESSION

monitor her daughter non-stop after Dawn's frightening request were futile. Sleeping pills and a plastic bag finally brought Dawn what she craved for so long.

According to Bawden, during his 21 years in the psychiatric profession, bipolar disorder most commonly appeared in adults between the ages of 30 and 40. However, research now indicates that the illness typically emerges in adolescence or early adulthood. Bawden attributes this to the fact that the illness has been found to be genetically based from infancy, therefore leading to earlier detection and diagnosis of symptoms.

"The more severe the illness, the earlier the classic picture emerges," said Bawden.

Manic-depressive illness is characterized by the following symptoms, which fall into four categories:

Depression: persistent sad mood; loss of interest in pleasurable activities; change in appetite; change in sleep habits; energy loss; low esteem; difficulty with thinking or concentrating; and suicidal thoughts or tendencies.

Mania: Persistently high mood or irritability accompanied by at least three of the following: highly inflated self-esteem; decreased need for sleep; increased talkativeness; racing thoughts; easily distracted; increased goal-directed activity; physical agitation; and excessive involvement in risky behavior or activity.

Psychosis: Hallucinations and delusions can occur during severe periods of depression or mania. Mixed state: Symptoms of mania and depression are simultaneously apparent including agitation, sleeping difficulty, significant change in appetite, psychosis, and suicidal tendencies.

The roller coaster symptoms of mania and depression occur in episodes that continue and become more frequent throughout a manic-depressive's life. The episodes are buffered by periods in which a person may have little or no symptoms at all. It is considered to be a period of wellness or normalcy.

"Even if the appearance given off was normal, Dawn wasn't okay," commented Round Lake resident Nora Bowers, who is Dawn's sister-in-law.

"Dawn was always asking 'am I normal?'" recalled Gravdahl. "It is what bipolar sufferers always think."

Gravdahl said that Dawn's manic stage left her totally uncontrollable. She would play the piano at warped speed, dress provocatively and act promiscuously. She would also become verbally abusive, particularly to Gravdahl. Mood-stabilizing drugs affected Dawn's ability to demonstrate true emotions like crying at a sad movie, making her feel even more abnormal.

"When Dawn was depressed, she was pitiful. I didn't know what to do for her," said Gravdahl. "This illness most certainly wears down loved ones."

When Laura was in a manic state, she demonstrated increased goal activities particularly in career-oriented areas. Her decisions to study a certain profession seemed to change from one manic stage to the next.

Bawden said the high-risk period for suicide attempts usually occurs at the beginning of a mood upswing. He noted that a manic-depressive is more readily able to mobilize when coming out of a depression stage, thus garnering the energy to make the attempt. Bawden also pointed out that families with multiple cases of suicide are usually found to have bipolar disorders present.

According to the NIMH, more than two-thirds of people with manic-depressive illness have at least one close relative with the disorder or with unipolar major depression. This research is indicative of the heredity components of the disease.

In Dawn's case, some paternal relatives were found to have excessive-compulsive disorder and paranoid schizophrenia. In Laura's case, some maternal relatives were thought to suffer from clinical depression. Laura's daughter, now a teen-ager,

Bawden said he shares a theory with many mental health professionals in which some people who are genetically predisposed to bipolar disorder may just be carriers. He noted that the distinction might lead to a different outcome than illness, such as increased productivity. He theoretically noted the super energetic businessman who can exist on little or no sleep as an example.

Because the symptoms of bipolar disorder and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) have a large overlap, Bawden noted that early manifestations of bipolar disorder may appear as ADHD in children. He also said that a bipolar adolescent might be mistaken as going through an "extreme rebellion stage" which is normal behavior for adolescents. In an NIMH study, it was reported that one percent of adolescents aged 14 to 18 were found to have met the criteria for bipolar disorder.

"Child psychiatrists don't follow the children they treat over a long period of time and therefore may not be able to correlate the symptoms they demonstrate with another illness," explained Bawden.

It took approximately 5 years before Dawn was diagnosed with bipolar. Gravdahl said doctors had diagnosed her with everything from behavioral disorders to schizophrenia. Denial on the part of Dawn's father also hindered earlier diagnosis of her disease.

"Dawn just thought she was losing her mind and there was no hope," recalled Gravdahl. Bawden named several traditional triggers for manic-depressive episodes including anniversary events, seasonal changes, time zone changes, stimulant use, stress, antidepressants and disruptions in interpersonal relationships.

Gravdahl and Bower believe family disapproval of Dawn's involvement with a co-worker might have been the final trigger that led to her decision to end the torment of her illness.

"It's hard to understand what they (manic-depressives) are feeling because we haven't experienced it ourselves, but at some point, you have to allow that the illness exists," claimed Bower, who said it was difficult to reason with Dawn in her manic state. "I still don't understand the illness, but I wish I had tried to understand Dawn more." A variety of medications are used to treat bipolar disorder including mood-stabilizing lithium and anti-convulsant medications such as valproate and depacote.

"Poly-pharmacy is the vogue right now," said Bawden. "It is not unusual to have a patient on more than one medication for effective treatment."

The trick is to keep manic-depressives on their medication. Usually, in mania phases, manic-depressives feel so good that they don't think they need the prescribed drugs.

Bawden said many feel that it is too painful to not be in a mania stage.

"Many manic-depressives need to tap into their mania to become more creative," explained Bawden. "They feel ecstatic, some hear the voice of God or other special voices. Like cocaine addicts, manic-depressives like their highs."

"Be patient and listen," advises Gravdahl to those who find it difficult to deal with manic-depressive loved ones. "Try to understand, but most important of all, try not to get angry, because they hate themselves enough as it is."

PORNOGRAPHY

"Snowy Violet."

Copies of some of the images, depicting very young children, were faxed to the sheriff's office by the California authorities. That material along with other information about the case enabled Lake County authorities to issue the search warrant. Items seized during the search included two computer systems and numerous diskettes.

Heidecke said the computer hard drives and the diskettes will undergo further investigation to determine if additional pornographic material is present on the equipment.

During the search of her residence, Ross made voluntary, post-Miranda Warning statements to the case investigators. She admitted to her screen name, and to the sending of images of children engaged in sex acts with adults through picture trading chat rooms.

Ross was accompanied by her attorney when she surrendered herself to the sheriff's office on May 8. Before being booked into the Lake County Jail, she was served with a felony arrest warrant.

Ross was charged with three counts of Child Pornography. Each count carries a maximum penalty of 4-15 years in prison. She was released on a $20,000 recognizance bond, with no access to the Internet. A preliminary hearing is set for June 1.

and decision-making skills required for world-class manufacturing operations, said Ruth Sweetser, assistant dean, business and industry relations in IIT's graduate college.

As businesses support their employees enrolling in IIT's courses, computer science and engineering courses will be available, as well. In addition, IIT offers up to 150 academic courses per semester in various disciplines via distance education capabilities, which include IITV, videoconferencing and Internet. University Station will also provide access to the university's ever-expanding repertoire of information technology training certificates. Information about all offerings is available at www.iit.edu/business or by calling (630) 682-6020.

According to Adams, the first IIT courses make education very accessible to working professionals. The courses are the kind people are looking for to advance their knowledge and careers. Adams said there will be even greater access for students and businesses as more schools start to offer comprehensive undergraduate, graduate and certificate programs, as well as single classes at University Station.

University Station is the redevelopment of Waukegan's Lakehurst Mall into a smart growth community built around education and related services. The entire University Station area will include adult housing, senior housing, retail, hotel, conference services, restaurants, day care, museums, galleries, libraries, entertainment, bookstores and other shopping, government departments and public transportation.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

More common than sense: Business nonsense

Common sense is the ability to look at the situations we find ourselves in and still do what ought to be done. Unfortunately, common sense isn't as common as it ought to be.

Business nonsense is the absence of common sense. It is either becoming more common or I'm becoming more aware of it. Either way, I believe it's worth drawing your attention to.

Business nonsense can become accepted practice if enough businesses buy into it. Anatole France said, "If fifty million people say a foolish thing it is still a foolish thing." However, all too often common beliefs and common practice are substituted for what ought to be done.

Some nonsense examples

A few months ago, I wrote about a problem we were having getting the computer we ordered shipped to our office in an expedient manner. The company shipped the wrong computer and the exchange process wasn't easy.

The first problem involving the lack of common sense occurred when the company was shocked that we had broken the security seal on a computer box that wasn't ours. Common sense would tell you—unless you are telepathic—that you must open the box to see if what's in it is what you ordered. When the box is addressed to your firm, you assume it is yours.

The second instance that demonstrated complete lack of common sense was when the computer company sent us an invoice for 18 cents for a poster that was missing when we returned the misshipped computer. That's right, they spent 33 cents on postage to send out an 18-cent invoice. Factor in the time, materials, and opportunity cost of creating and sending the "18 cent invoice" and you've just validated a complete lack of common sense.

Here's another example. An extra value breakfast meal at my favorite fast-food stop includes a small coffee. But, if you win a free value meal in an annual promotion game and want to move the drink up to a large soft drink, you must pay full price for the soft drink. Where did the 59-cent coffee value go? It's nonsense.

Another bit of business idiocy is the procedure at some wholesale clubs. First, you stand in long lines for a long time to check out. Then, 10 feet from where you just checked out, another employee takes your receipt and checks it against the actual items in your cart. More nonsense.

Some quick fixes

* Look for "we've always done it this way" problems. If you don't have a good reason for any business activity other than it is the standard routine, don't continue to do it. All "standard practices" should be evaluated frequently and changed

Hot-button road panel urges gas tax, longer Rte. 53

Two highly controversial solutions to ease Lake County gridlock were voiced at a seminar on solving transportation problems:

1. Conduct a referendum on creating a county gasoline tax.

2. Extend Rte. 53 northward from the Lake-Cook countyline.

Freshman State Rep. Sidney Matthias (R-Buffalo Grove) came out solidly in favor of both Rte. 53 and adding a county gasoline tax.

"I support a referendum to give residents a choice," declared Matthias, the former mayor of Buffalo Grove. As for the hot button issue of Rte. 53, Matthias stated flatly: "It makes no sense to end Rte. 53 where it is. It's unfair to the people living in the path of Rte. 53. They're in limbo. A decision should be made in a short time."

Panelist Kirk Brown, head of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT), called Rte. 53 the "missing link" in the northern Illinois highway picture. "It (the extension) would make the rest of the system work better. It's badly needed. It will solve congestion."

Brown's comments on Rte. 53 at the panel sponsored by the Lake County Home Builders Assn. came as no surprise. IDOT conceived the widely praised and just as widely condemned project more than 30 years ago.

Martin Buehler, director of the Lake County Division on Transportation, drew chuckles when he responded to a question about the future of Rte. 53, "I don't have a clew."

Buehler was more expansive on the question of a county gasoline tax posed by moderator Harry Siegle, the building supplies magnet.

If a four-cent tax would have been imposed 11 years ago when the funding avenue was made possible, Lake County would have had more than $100 million to apply to highway construction, according to Buehler. The long-time county road chief said county highway funding has to rely on real estate taxes.

Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams, another panelist, said an addition of commuter rail service on the EJ&E Railroad that cuts diagonally across the county would have a beneficial effect on pressures for high housing density by spreading out development.

Adams predicted that transportation problems will be the top issue in the 2001 municipal elections. He also urged that highway study groups be limited to encourage consensus on solutions that would lead to implementation of highway construction plans.

The panel, part of an on-going program on public issues sponsored by the builders organization, was held at Kemper Lakes Golf Club, Long Grove.

Lakeland Newspapers' circulation department has begun a subscription sales program designed to help local school district programs raise money.

Under the effort, Lakeland hosts a group of students at its Lake Villa circulation sales office. While there, students call neighbors in various Lake County communities to offer them subscriptions to their favorite Lakeland newspaper.

A portion of each subscription sales price is donated by the publisher to the school's program.

The first school to work with Lakeland was Antioch Community High School. A group of students worked on a Sunday afternoon to raise money for its "You Make a Difference Scholarship Program."

"This is a wonderful way for school groups to raise money," Lakeland Newspapers Publisher Bill Schroeder said.

ACHS students who participated in the program include: Jordan Nobler, Lindsay Ellis, Stefanie Lambert, Maggie Higgins, Cami Hackney, Jason Love, Chris Kocinski, Lindsay Burke and school Principal Dr. James Love.

For information or to sign a group up for the program, contact Kevin Wagner at 245-7500.

Drug-free workplace program launched

Governor Ryan, wife announce initiative to help small businesses

Governor George H. Ryan and First Lady Lura Lynn Ryan have announced the establishment of the new Illinois Small Business Drug Free Work Place Program.

"We are reaching out to small businesses that may not have the resources or knowledge to put together a drug free work place program on their own," Governor Ryan said. "Prevention First Inc. has been a primary source for substance abuse prevention materials and resources in Illinois for almost 20 years. I am pleased that they will take a leadership role in this initiative."

The program is designed to assist Illinois' more than 653,000 small businesses and their employees with the tools necessary to establish a drug-free workplace. The program is sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration and the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs in partnership with Prevention First Inc., the Chicagoland Chamber of Commerce, the Mid-West Truckers Association and the SIU-Carbondale Small Business Development Center.

"An important aspect of this initiative is training parents to be aware of the important role they play in their child's decision to not use alcohol, tobacco or other drugs. Parents need to be equipped with the information they need to discuss drug use with their children, communicate their expectations and recognize if there is a problem," Mrs. Ryan added. "In addition, company's need the tools to equip their employees with the information and skills to live healthy lifestyles."

Through this program, Illinois small businesses will learn the "do's and don'ts" of work place drug testing, the costs of substance abuse, supervisor training, Employee Assistance Programs and treatment options for employees in need. Forty-two half day workshops will be held throughout the state and run until the end of September 2000.

"It has been conservatively estimated that substance abuse problems in the workplace cost Illinois businesses 3 percent of their payroll, totaling nearly $4 billion a year. Because these costs are staggering, business cannot tolerate alcohol and other substance abuse in the workplace," noted DCCA Director Pam McDonough. "This program will positively impact the bottom line by giving businesses information that will determine the best and most cost effective way to help employees, while protecting the health and profitability of the small business."

One Drug-Free Workplace Seminar Date is set for June 7, 8 a.m.-noon, no charge, McHenry County College, Room B-168, 8900 US Highway 14, Crystal Lake, 60012-2761, or call Susan Whitfield/Sheri McGowan, 815/455-6098.

Another seminar is set for August 22, 8 a.m.-12 p.m., no charge, College of Lake County, Room C-003, Grayslake, 60030-1198, or call Alese Campbell/Barb Hensel, 543-2033.

To register for a seminar, call the contact listed at the location you wish to attend. For more information about the Illinois Small Business Drug-Free Work Place Program contact Prevention First, Inc. at 800/252-8951 (TDD: 217/793-7355) or visit the DCCA web site at www.commerce.state.il.us.

Kemper to open campus to outside tenants

The Kemper Insurance Companies is seeking tenants to lease about 450,000 square feet of prime, Class A space located in two of the four office buildings situated on the company's 118-acre campus in Long Grove.

This is the first time that Kemper has marketed its private, international headquarters campus to outside tenants. The provider of insurance and risk management services moved to the park-like complex in 1971.

In a related move, Kemper also has decided to market about 500 acres of vacant land adjacent to its campus. Kemper has retained Cushman & Wakefield as exclusive leasing and sales agent for the property.

Available for immediate lease are two buildings—both designed with three stories of large, flexible floor plans. One building was developed in 1990 and designed by Holabird & Root, the other was developed in 1983 and designed by Metz, Train, Youngren. Each is being marketed to a single-user or full-floor tenants to take advantage of the existing high-end corporate finishes and layout.

Kemper moved to its Long Grove headquarters in 1971 into what is now Building 1. Buildings 2 and 4 were added during the next 12 years, and Building 3 was completed and occupied in mid-1991. Kemper's decision to lease two of its four Long Grove office buildings is in keeping with its ongoing efforts to locate closer to customers and to reduce expenses and increase efficiency.

"More of our operations are choosing to locate in geographic areas where they can be closer to their customers. That, combined with the sale of our reinsurance and highly protected risk business, means we need less space in Long Grove," said Steve Andrews, Kemper senior vice president, administration.

I-PASS to expand to commercial vehicles

The Illinois Tollway today announced plans to expand the I-PASS electronic toll collection program to include commercial vehicles in response to Governor Ryan's call to redouble efforts to reduce congestion and delays on Toll-way roads.

Currently I-PASS is only available to passenger vehicles, with over 312,000 I-PASS accounts now in use. However, there are about 100,000 commercial accounts currently using a charge card on the Tollway system and these accounts will be converted to I-PASS commercial accounts with a target date of October 1 for completion of the transition.

The first accounts to be converted will be the 8,000 firms using the 163rd Street toll plaza on the far south end of the Tri-State Tollway (I-

Baird & Warner sets sales records

Baird & Warner, Chicago's oldest and largest independent real estate company, capped the best first quarter in its history with an all-time, one-month residential sales record in March.

The company generated $524 million in sales volume, its single best month in its history, to bring sales volume for the January/March quarter to $1.1 billion.

March sales volume topped year-earlier sales of $389 million by 15 percent on the strength of a 15 percent increase in unit volume for the month, at 1,948 units compared with 1,692 a year earlier.

Cumulative sales volume for the quarter eclipsed 1999 by $267 million, or 31.5 percent.
 Year-to-date unit volume climbed 18 percent, an improvement of 680 units from 3,721 in the 1999 quarter to 4,401 currently.

Kemper sells Lake Zurich building

Kemper Insurance Companies has sold its 71,000-square-foot industrial building at 330
 E. Main St., in Lake Zurich to Empryeen Candles, a candle manufacturer. The company will take occupancy of the facility, which sits on 4.1 acres, this month.

Cushman & Wakefield's Keith Puritz, Christopher Porter and Brett Kroner represented Kemper Insurance in the sale of the building. John Hauser and Tim Thompson of Insignia/ESG represented Empryeen Candles.

The Kemper Insurance Companies, with

1999 revenues of about $3 billion, is a leading provider of property-casualty insurance and risk management services. It operates countrywide and in many foreign markets.

Cushman & Wakefield is the preeminent international real estate services firm. Globally, Cushman & Wakefield manages 325 million square feet and is a market leader in all its businesses, including office and industrial brokerage, financial services, advisory services, asset services, corporate services, valuation advisory services and research services.

TAYLOR:

when a better way is found. Look hard for better ways.

* Ask the question, "Does this really make sense?" If employees are involved, ask them.
 If vendors or suppliers are involved, ask them.
 If customers are involved, ask them.

* Don't let it happen again. Often, the only difference between the wise and the foolish is "when." What the fools are still doing at the end is what the wise were doing in the beginning. When the wise see their folly they stop and don't repeat the foolishness.

* There may be more than one "common sense" option. Seldom is there only one way to fix what isn't working. More often than not, you will find several solutions. Don't develop tunnel vision and assume that there is only one way to succeed.

Emerson wrote, "Nothing astonishes men so much as common sense and plain dealing." That might be a pretty good recipe for eliminating business nonsense as well.

Tech Fair 2000 includes networking opportunity

Forty technology industry leaders will be on hand to greet the Lake County business community at Inacomp Computer Systems' Tech Fair 2000. The annual computer show, one the largest in northern Illinois, offers a rare opportunity for local businesses to meet face-to-face with technology manufacturers and their representatives. Inacomp's 5th Technology Fair kicks off at 1:30 p.m. on May 17, at the Holiday Inn of Gurnee (I-94 at Illinois 132).

One highlight of the event is Inacomp's "Business After Hours," held in conjunction with the Lake County Chamber of Commerce. This year's Business After Hours, sponsored by Sony Electronics, provides a convenient and educational networking experience for local companies.

"Last year's Technology Fair provided the business community with the most up to date information possible about the vibrant and rapidly-changing technology industry," noted Debra Trombino Moore, Managing General Partner at Inacomp Computer Systems. "We're confident that our outstanding lineup of vendors will make this year's Tech Fair even better."

Inacomp Computer Systems is located at 820 Lakeside Drive in Gurnee. For more information, contact Gordon Sobe, Operations Manager at 662-2100, ext. 24. Inacomp Computer Systems is the area's leading business-to-business computer center, specializing in mid to large size companies.

Proper food prep can prevent listeriosis

What is listeriosis?

Listeriosis, which is caused by eating food contaminated by the bacteria Listeria monocytogenes, can be a serious disease. In the United States, an estimated 1,850 persons become seriously ill with listeriosis each year. Of these, 425 die. In Illinois, approximately 20 cases of listeriosis are reported annually; about 25 percent of the cases die.

Who is at risk for listeriosis?

While anyone can become ill from eating food contaminated by the bacteria, pregnant women, newborns and adults with weakened immune systems are most at risk. Pregnant women are about 20 times more likely than other healthy adults to get listeriosis.

About one-third of all reported cases happen during pregnancy. Infection during pregnancy may result in spontaneous abortion during the second and third trimesters or stillbirth.

Those with weakened immune systems (for example, the elderly and persons with cancer, diabetes or kidney disease or HIV/AIDS) are more likely to get listeriosis than people with normal immune systems.

You get listeriosis from eating food contaminated by the bacteria. Babies can be born with the disease if their mothers ate contaminated food during pregnancy. Although healthy adults and children may consume contaminated food without becoming ill, those who are at increased risk can probably get the disease after consuming even a few bacteria.

How does Listeria get into food?

Listeria monocytogenes is found in soil and water. Vegetables can become contaminated from the soil or from manure used as fertilizer. Animals can carry the bacteria without appearing ill and meat or dairy products from these animals can be contaminated. The bacteria also have been found in a variety of raw foods, such as uncooked meats and vegetables, as well as in processed food, that become contaminated after processing, such as cheese and cold cuts at the deli counter. Unpasteurized (raw) milk or foods made from raw milk may contain the bacteria.

How do you know if you have listeriosis?

A person with listeriosis usually has a fever, muscle aches and, sometimes, gastrointestinal symptoms such as nausea and diarrhea. If infection spreads to the nervous system, symptoms such as headache, stiff neck, confusion, loss of balance or convulsions can occur.

Infected pregnant women may experience only a mild, flu-like illness. However, infection during pregnancy can lead to premature delivery, infection of the newborn or even stillbirth.

There is no routine screening test for susceptibility to listeriosis during pregnancy, as there is for rubella or some other congenital infections. If you have symptoms such as fever or stiff neck, you should consult your physician. A blood or spinal fluid test (to cultivate the bacteria) will show if you have listeriosis. During pregnancy, a blood test is the most reliable way to find out if symptoms are due to listeriosis.

How can you reduce your risk for listeriosis?

As with other foodborne illnesses, there are several guidelines that will help to reduce the risk of infection with Listeria monocytogenes:

- Cook thoroughly any raw food from animal sources, such as beef, pork or poultry.
- Wash raw vegetables thoroughly before eating.
- Keep uncooked meats separate from vegetables and from cooked and ready-to-eat foods.
- Avoid raw (unpasteurized) milk or foods made from raw milk.
- Wash hands, knives and other utensils, and cutting surfaces after handling uncooked foods.

Persons who are at high risk—pregnant women and persons with weakened immune systems—should follow these additional recommendations:

• Avoid soft cheeses (for example, feta, Brie, Camembert, blue-veined and Mexican-style cheese). Hard cheeses, processed cheeses, cream cheese, cottage cheese or yogurt need not be avoided.

• Cook left-over foods or ready-to-eat foods, such as hot dogs, until steaming hot before eating.

• Although the risk of listeriosis associated with foods from deli counters is relatively low, pregnant women and persons whose immune systems are suppressed may choose to avoid these foods or to thoroughly reheat cold cuts before eating.

How is listeriosis treated?

When infection occurs during pregnancy, antibiotics given promptly to the pregnant woman can often prevent infection of the fetus or the newborn. Babies with listeriosis receive the same antibiotics as adults.

Even with prompt treatment, however, some infections result in death. This is particularly likely in the elderly and in persons with other serious medical problems.

Gallstones often a family affair

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 49 and the middle child of three daughters. Both my sisters had their gallbladders removed because of stones, as did my mother and grandmother. I am thinner than they are, and my diet is mostly vegetarian. Will I inevitably be a candidate for gallstones and surgery? Can diet help me avoid the risk?—L.T.

ANSWER: Your family's history made me perk up my ears. Genes do figure into gallstones. Your family is living proof. That's a far cry from saying that every single member of a family is destined to have them because other family members have had them.

Diet can help you avoid the risk. Cut back on animal fats and refined sugar. Apparently you have already done that.

Obesity is another risk for gallstones. You've eliminated risk without being told to do so.

Birth control pills and rapid weight loss are two other ingredients that promote gallstone formation. Again you are safe on both those scores.

You might find this hard to swallow, but exercise reduces the chances of forming gallstones. I hesitate to furnish that information for fear that people will believe I have gone overboard with exercise benefits. However, two to three hours of exercise a week decreases the chance of stone formation by 20 percent.

You intuitively have done all the right things to prevent gallstones. Keep it up, and your gallbladder might never harbor a stone in spite of your family history.

The report "Gallbladder Problems" provides more information on gallstones and what can be done for them. If you wish to obtain a copy, write to: Dr. Donohue—No. 40W, Box 563475, Orlando, FL

Dear Dr. Donohue: A family member has calcium pyrophosphate crystal disease. Could you tell me what causes it, its prognosis and its treatment?—K.M.

ANSWER: Calcium pyrophosphate crystals in joints cause pseudogout—"pseudo" (false) gout because it has similar signs and symptoms of gout but is not the same disease.

With pseudogout, a joint suddenly swells, hurts and is hot in the same way joints react in gout. However, pseudogout targets the knees and wrists, while gout homes in on the bit toe, ankles and heels.

Why calcium pyrophosphate crystals penetrate joints is a question without an answer. Sometimes the process occurs in people with parathyroid gland disturbances. The parathyroid glands regulate blood calcium levels.

Anti-inflammatory drugs, such as indomethacin, naproxen and ibuprofen, can usually control pseudogout. If they can't, injecting the joint with cortisone can.

The prognosis for pseudogout is, in general, quite good.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Are school grades good or bad?

Dear Dr. Singer,

What do you think of "creative spelling" and other newer types of educational philosophy? For example, in some of my son's friends' schools, they seem to be doing away with grades and replacing them with less competitive types of marks. I don't like this at all. Do you think this is good or bad for kids? F.R.

Dear F.R.,

I am a big believer that we want to encourage our kids to learn what they need to for their futures.

Ours is a world of competition, expectations and standards. I want our kids to be able to transition into that adult world without "culture shock."

If we spend their entire childhood evening things out and requiring nothing from them in terms of actual achievement, I believe we are putting them at a disadvantage and teaching them the wrong message. Obviously, there are obstacles that all kids—and adults, for that matter—have to face.

My feeling is that we should find out through testing what those obstacles are quickly and deal with them while encouraging achievement, success and yes...competition.

The thought of doing away with the competitive process in school would be as silly as doing the same thing in team sports. Can you imagine how well one would try to do in team sports if there was no way to score or win? I'm not a proponent of "creative spelling" or masked grading. I am a big proponent of our kids learning responsibility within our homes and schools as kids. Not waiting until they are ready to leave our homes or have already left our homes for them to find out the hard way that the adult world of jobs doesn't recognize "creative spelling" and downplaying achievement as the good way to do things. I realize there are others out there who would disagree with what I feel, however, I have seen the results these things cause and to me, they are not good. Hope this helps! Take care!

The facts on high blood pressure discussed

High blood pressure, or hypertension, puts one of every four Americans at greater risk for arteriosclerosis, heart attack, an enlarged heart, kidney damage and stroke. According to the National Institutes of Health, heart disease is the No. 1 killer in the United States, and stroke is the third most common cause of death. In Illinois, approximately 35,000 people die from heart disease each year; another 7,500 die from strokes. If your blood pressure is normal, there are certain measures that can prevent hypertension from developing. These same measures also can help you lower your blood pressure if it is high.

What is blood pressure?

Each time a person's heart beats, it pushes blood from the heart through arteries to all of the body's tissues and organs. Blood pressure is the force of the blood pushing against artery walls. This pressure is greatest when the heart contracts and is pumping the blood; this is called systolic pressure. When the heart is at rest between beats, blood pressure falls; this is the diastolic pressure. Written as numbers, usually one (systolic) above or before the other (diastolic) for example, 120/80 both are important indicators of cardiovascular health.

How is blood pressure measured?

Having your blood pressure checked is quick, easy and painless. It is done with an instrument called a sphygmomanometer. A blood pressure cuff is wrapped around the upper arm and inflated to stop the blood flow in the artery for a few seconds. A valve then is opened and air is released from the cuff. The sound of blood rushing through the artery can be heard through a stethoscope. The first sound heard and registered on the sphygmomanometer is the systolic blood pressure. It represents the maximum pressure in the artery produced as the heart contracts and the blood begins to flow again. The last sound heard as more air is released from the cuff is the diastolic blood pressure. It represents the lowest pressure that remains within the artery when the heart is at rest. What do the numbers mean?

If your blood pressure is less than 140/90, it is considered normal.

However, a blood pressure below 120/80 is even better for your heart and blood vessels. People used to think that low blood pressure was unhealthy. Except for rare cases, this is not true. High blood pressure is classified by stages and is more serious as the numbers get higher.

Who is most likely to develop high blood pressure?

Anyone can develop high blood pressure, but some people, according to the National Institutes of Health, are more likely to do so. For example, hypertension develops earlier and is more severe in African Americans than in whites. Gender makes a difference, too; men are more likely to have high blood pressure during the early and middle adult years. After menopause, however, women are more likely to have high blood pressure than men of the same age. In older age groups, hypertension increases rapidly among both men and women.

What causes high blood pressure?

In most cases, there is no single known cause of high blood pressure. "Primary" or "essential" hypertension cannot be cured, but it usually can be controlled. In some cases, high blood pressure can be traced to a known cause, such as tumors of the adrenal gland, chronic kidney disease, hormone abnormalities, use of birth control pills or pregnancy. Referred to as "secondary" hypertension, this kind of high blood pressure can be cured if its cause passes or is corrected. How can high blood pressure be prevented?

•Maintain a healthy weight. If you are overweight, lose those extra pounds. As weight increases, so does blood pressure. In fact, being overweight can make a person two to six times more likely to develop high blood pressure. Losing weight can reduce the risk of high blood pressure or, if a person already has high blood pressure, can help lower blood pressure. The only way to lose weight is to eat fewer calories than the body burns. Crash dieting is not the answer, though; the healthiest and longest-lasting weight loss happens when it is done slowly about 1/2 to 1 pound a week.

You can accomplish this by following several basic rules:

•Choose foods low in calories and fat. Everyone knows that eating low-calorie foods will help reduce weight, but so will watching how much fat is in a person's daily diet. Whereas 1 gram of protein or 1 gram of carbohydrate has 4 calories, a gram of fat contains 9 calories. Foods that draw a large proportion of their calories from fat include butter, margarine, regular salad dressings, fatty meats, poultry skin, whole milk dairy foods like cheese, fried foods, and many cookies, cakes, pastries and snacks.

Check a food's nutrition label for calories from fat. The American Heart Association recommends that Americans reduce their total fat intake to less than 30 percent of total calories (less than 10 percent should be from saturated fat). For example, if daily total calorie intake is 2,400, no more than 80 grams of fat should be eaten.

•Choose foods high in starch and fiber. Fruits, vegetables, whole-grain cereals and breads, pasta, rice, dry peas and beans are excellent sources of starch and fiber. Lower in calories than high-fat foods, these foods also are good sources of vitamins and minerals.

•Limit serving sizes. Not only should a person be careful about the type of foods he or she is eating, but also about the amount. Smaller helpings of everything particularly high calorie foods like fatty meats and cheeses will translate into weight loss. Try not to go back for seconds, either.

Your kids are what you eat; set proper example

The eating habits of parents may play an important role in the development of obesity in children, according to research that was presented recently at the American Heart Association's L.J. Filer Jr. Third Annual Conference on Atherosclerosis in the young.

Researchers looked at the eating habits of the parents of 92 children enrolled in the Framingham Children's Study. The youngsters were all 3 to 5 years old at the beginning of the study.

The researchers used a standardized questionnaire to assess three factors associated with parents' eating behaviors: dietary restraint, disinhibited eating and self-perceived hunger. The Dietary Restraint Scale reflects an individual's conscious efforts to restrict food intake. The Disinhibition Scale measures "impulsive eating," as well as the resulting fluctuation in both dietary intake and body weight. The Hunger Scale measures whether a person eats in response to internal cues, such as hunger, or to external cues.

The parents were divided into three groups for each of the three scales depending on whether they had high, medium or low scores on those scales. Researchers then looked at changes in body fat in the children over the next six years. Body fat was measured each year by recording the child's height and weight and by using calipers to measure the thickness of the child's skinfolds in five different areas of the body as a total measure of body fat. Researchers also recorded changes in the skin fold thickness in the children from year-to-year.

They found the kids whose parents scored highest on either dietary restraint or disinhibition had great increases in body fat over the next six years than children whose parents scored lower.

The parents' level of impulse eating had a particularly strong effect on the child's body fat level. For example, the children whose parents had the highest scores in the disinhibition scale gained an extra 25 millimeters in their skinfold thickness compared to children whose parents had the lowest scores.

The children whose parents alternated between dietary restraint and impulse eating gained the most body fat over time. "The parents were consciously struggling to restrain their intake of food but, by their own report, were prone to eating excessively on impulse even when they weren't hungry," says Lynn L. Moore, D.Sc., assistant professor of medicine at Boston University School of Medicine, Boston, Mass. "Most people do this on occasion by eating a piece of chocolate cake even though they aren't hungry, but disinhibited eaters are particularly prone to this loss of control in the presence of certain food cues," she says.

The study's lead author, Maggie Y. Hood, M.P.H., also of Boston University School of Medicine, says parents are often unaware that they are passing on their own dietary habits and attitudes to their children. "As with many other things, the children are doing what their parents do, rather than listening to what their parents say," she says. "Some parents may emphasize the importance of a healthy diet to their children, but if their own diet doesn't reflect that belief, it's not likely to be a very effective message."

Hood says that parents have a great deal of control over the eating habits of their children. "It may be that parents who score the highest on dietary restraint may also exert excessive control over the child's ability to internally regulate his or her own dietary intake."

Moore, director of the Framingham Children's Study, says that researchers are currently looking at whether parents with high dietary restraint scores were more likely to be currently looking at whether parents with high dietary restraint scores were more likely to be more controlling with their children such as insisting that the children eat on a specific schedule even if they aren't hungry, or that they clean their plates even if they are already full.

Moore says the study's purpose was to identify how risk factors for chronic adult conditions such as high blood pressure, heart disease, or obesity are first established, so they can be prevented. "By the time a child reaches adolescence, many of those risk factors are already set. These children have already developed habits, such as a sedentary lifestyle or unhealthy dietary patterns that will persist throughout their lives, and increase their risk for heart disease in the future," she says. "They may also be on their way to developing obesity or high blood pressure."

Do you see the hospital in this Picture?

Maybe it's the simple X-ray their dad needed last week or the advanced care one child received as an infant, but our care has been an important part of their lives from day one. It's not always easy to see, just like the volunteer work our employees contribute every year. But it happens. In the background. And lives are changed because of it. During National Hospital Week, we salute our employees for everything they do to help us fulfill our mission of care at home and on the job. Their time makes moments like this possible every day of the year.

Just across the border in Salem, Wis., Mill Creek Villas condominiums hope to offer value while appealing to an upper class style of living. Prices range from the mid 80s to just over $130,000.—Photos by Kirsten Hough

Affordable condo living in grand style

Finally, there is affordable condo living in grand style in Kenosha County outside of the luxury ones built on area lakes.

The Millcreek Villas, located at the intersection of Rte. 83 and 87th St. in Salem, Wisconsin, four miles north of the Illinois border, consist of eight beautifully landscaped, two story buildings, with six individually styled units in each.

This unique concept has no two units alike in one building, eliminating the boring uniformity usually found in condo living.

Millcreek Villas are conveniently located near shopping on Hwy. 50 and across from the Community Library.

Buildings one, two and three are already up, with four more targeted for a Fall finish date. Each building has its own well and is connected to the Salem Sewer.

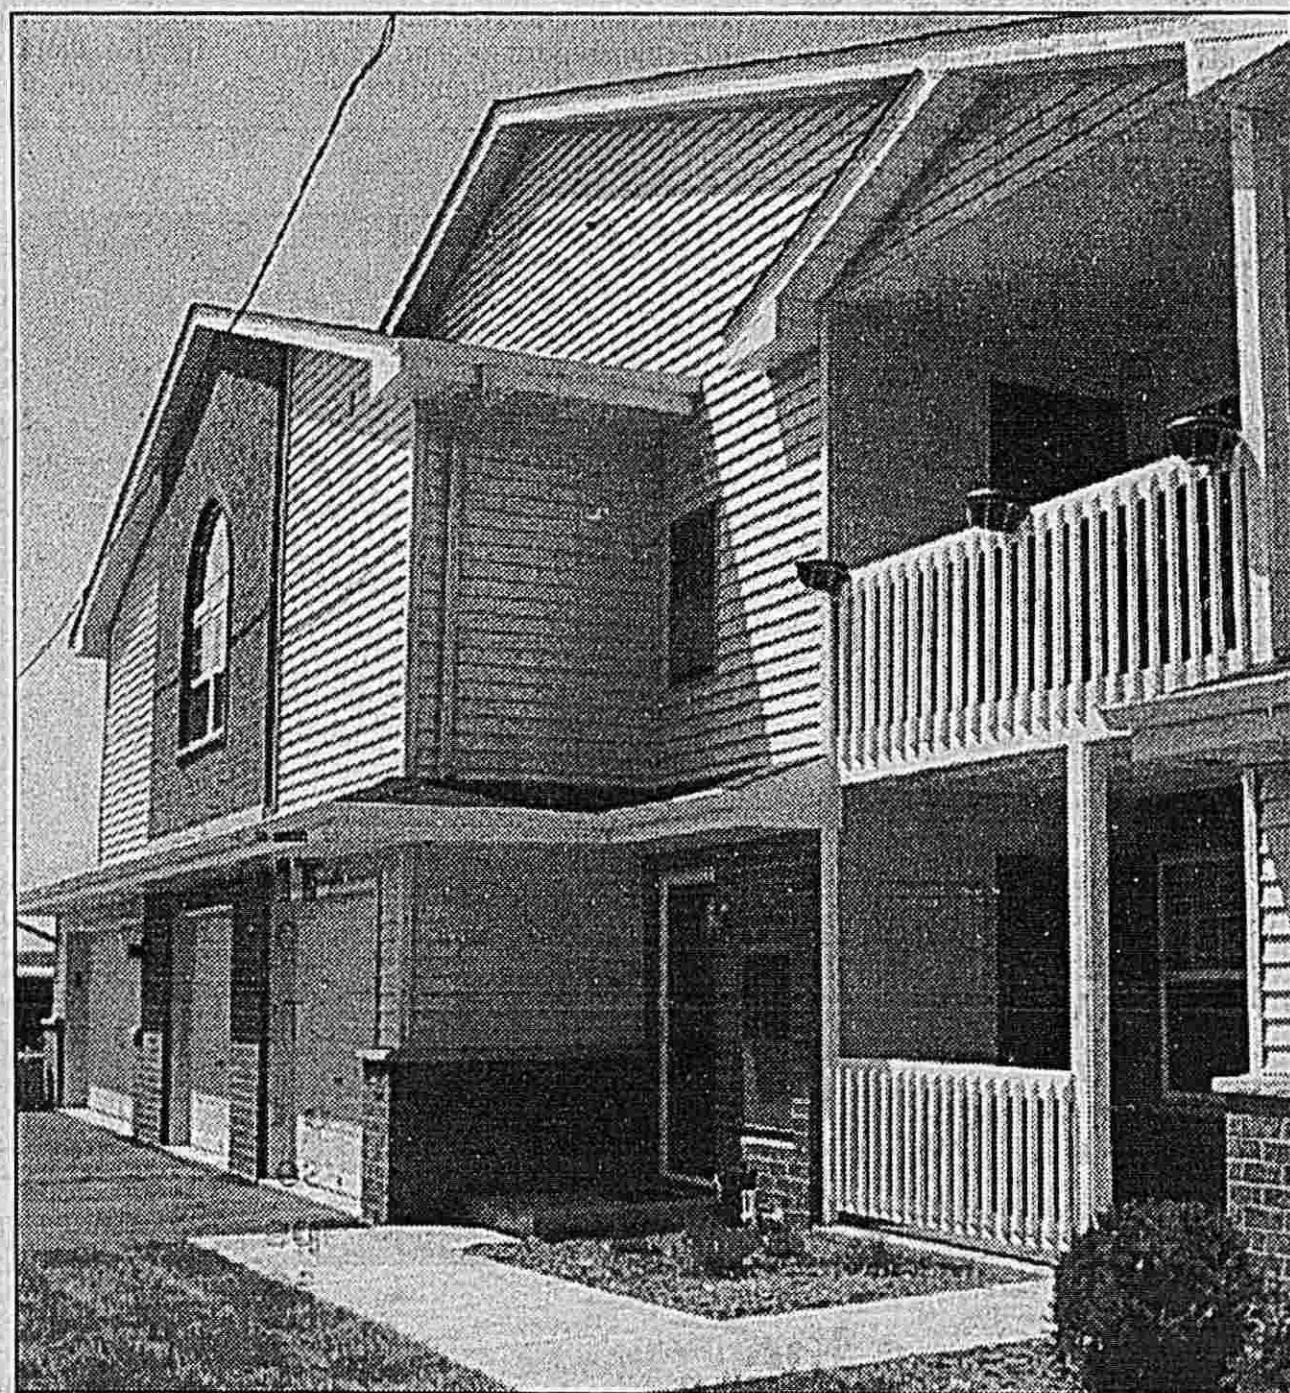

The sizes of the one-floor condos, range from a one-bedroom, with 868 sq. ft. of roomy living space, to a two-bedroom, with den, that has 1,442 sq. ft. of spacious living area. Other designs have two bedrooms and two baths.

The second story condos have room-expanding vaulted ceilings, and each has either a patio or balcony for gracious outdoor living.

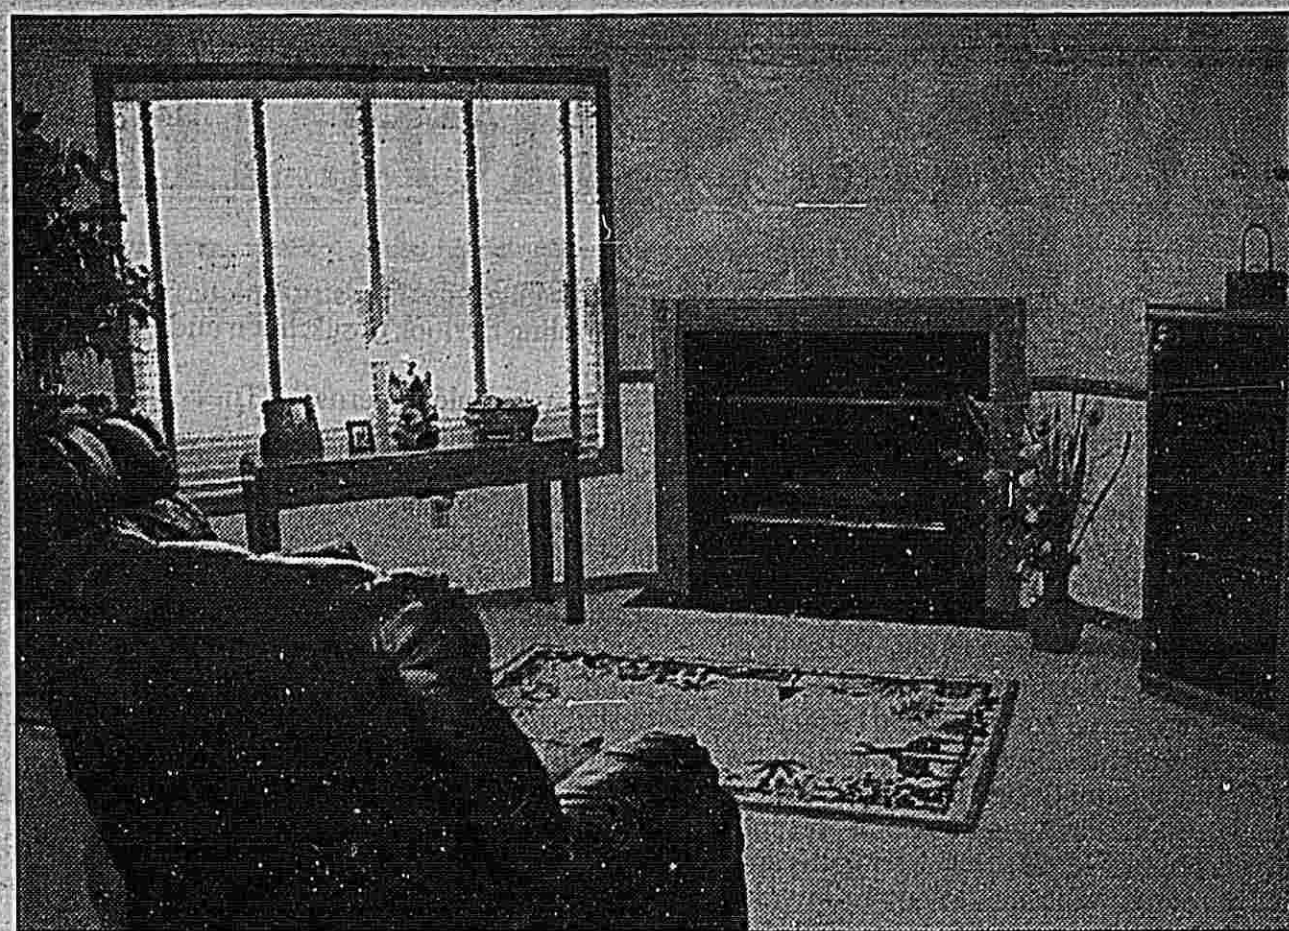

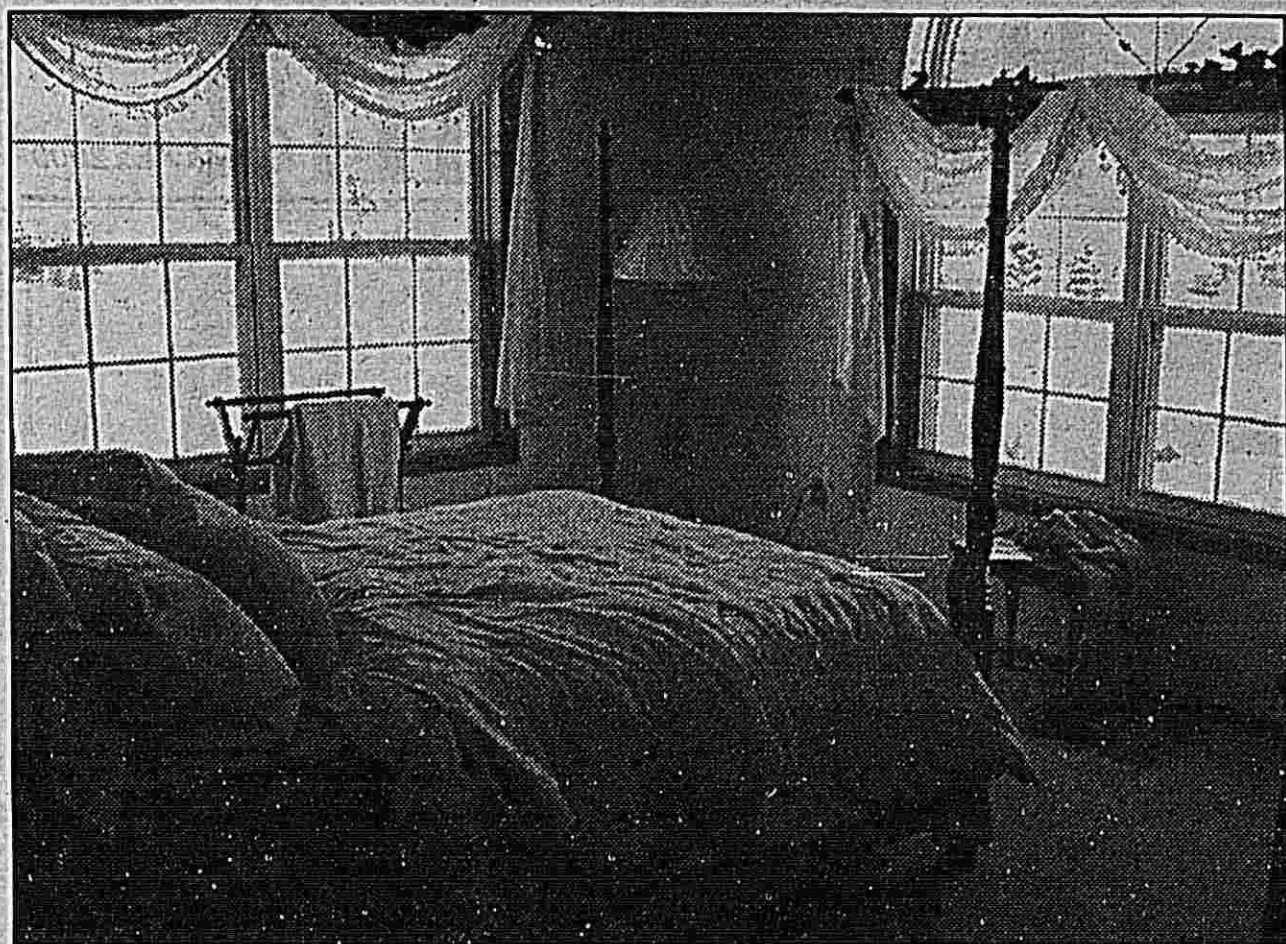

Every unit has a private entrance, a private garage, its own furnace and air conditioning unit operated by thermostat. Those taking occupancy now can choose their kitchen countertops and carpeting.

With some loan programs available requiring only 3 to 5 percent down, the affordable prices range from $84,900 for a big one bedroom, to $130,900 for the luxurious two bedroom condo with a den. The low monthly assessment of $85 covers everything except for personal insurance and utilities.

May occupancy is now available in Building Two, with June occupancy available in Building Three. The condos are shown from noon to 5 p.m. daily, or by appointment. Call (262)843-1864 for more information.

Condos at Mill Creek Villas are clustered six each in eight separate two-story buildings. Association fees are a modest $85 per month, covering everything except for personal insurance and utilities.

Mill Creek Villas also makes its mark by boasting there are 'no two units alike in one building.' Square footage ranges from 868 to a roomy 1,442 square feet. Each unit also has a private entrance, garage, and furnace. Construction on three of the buildings has already been completed.

What's hot in wallcovering

Despite an abundance of wallpaper patterns on the market, certain looks have become more popular with homeowners today than in days past. Stacy Senior, marketing manager for Thibaut, a leading manufacturer of wallcoverings and fabrics, tells about the trends her company sees relative to design, color and usage of wallpapers, borders and fabrics in the home:

• Novelty patterns — According to Senior, there is a growing interest in novelty designs — patterns that are unique, lighthearted and fun. For example, a pattern called Legacy from Thibaut's new Chronicles collection features a block-letter design in a neoclassic style. The pattern is adventuresome, yet subtle. "It is popular for use in master baths and powder rooms," comments Senior. Other novelty designs include a pattern with flowering topiary trees, and a Majolica pattern with whimsically painted porcelain vases, pitchers, teapots and planters. These are from the company's newer Front Porch collection.

• Animals — "Interesting animals from Africa — like monkeys, elephants, cheetahs, leopards and giraffes — are being incorporated into traditional floral designs," states Senior. The designs are not "cutesy," but sophisticated and elegant-looking. "The animals add a refreshing feel to the familiar traditional style, and the designs are appropriate for either formal or casual settings," she notes. According to Senior, leopard and other animal-print fabric patterns are a strong, continuing trend.

• The "fabric feel" — "We have incorporated 'relief' effects into many newer patterns, in which designs take on the look of worn or woven fabric," says Senior. The textural look is created through the design and the printing process (the paper is not actually raised or textured). "The result is a softer, more gentle appearance on the wall," she comments. Relief effects have been used to embellish everything from floral to paisley designs. One of Thibaut's newer collections, Stripe Resource, features relief effects in stripe patterns, some resembling the look of silk, linen and corduroy.

• Large-scale patterns — "The small-scale, mini-print patterns of the '80s are out" says Senior, "while more daring, large-scale designs are in." Small-scale tone-on-tone prints are good complementary sidewall patterns below a chair rail, or in an adjoining smaller-sized room, but larger-scale designs are being used in kitchens, master baths, bedrooms and dining rooms. "The popularity of larger-scale designs has stemmed from trends in building and remodeling, in which we see more open kitchen and family-room areas, higher ceilings, larger windows, and dramatic entry foyers," Senior comments.

• Tone-on-tone designs — For those who are hesitant to use bold, flat-painted color on their walls, tonal patterns are a popular, softer option. Tone-on-tone patterns usually feature a melodious design colored with "screens" of one hue (lighter and darker shades of blue, or yellow, for example). Tonal patterns in Thibaut collections include damasks, paisleys, scrolling architectural designs, stripes, and soft, subtle diamond, Harlequin or leaf-print designs. Tonal patterns are clever choices when trying to pull together the look of several rooms with varying patterns and colors. "They are good coordinating designs that help with the transfer from room to room," Senior points out.

• Fresh, clean colors — "Some of Thibaut's newest designs are colored with yellowy greens, grass-blade greens that are truer to nature, festive coral-pinks, dashes of purple, lemon yellow, sky blue and purplish-periwinkle," says Senior. The company sees demand shifting away from hunter green, teal, mauve and navy "jewel tones" that were popular three to five years ago.

• Earthy palate — Another popular color scheme includes more earthy tones, like olive green and khaki, plum, sage, clay, burgundy, brick red, wheat gold, and aubergine.

When it comes to wallpaper, there is a growing interest in novelty patterns. The pattern pictured here, called Legacy from Thibaut's new Chronicles collection, is one such design that features block letters in a neoclassic style.

• Taupe and black — "Neutral colors still are popular," comments Senior. They complement all types of styles, including contemporary tastes, and work well in large open spaces. They also can add "resale" value to a home. When it comes time to sell, neutral colors usually have broad appeal with prospective buyers.

• Borders used to "coordinate" rather than "complete" — In years past, borders more commonly were used to "finish off" and complete the look of one room. "Today, we are seeing borders frequently used with tone-on-tone wallpaper to combine the look of two or more rooms," says Senior. While a prominent wallpaper design might be used in the master bath, for example, a coordinating border is used in the adjoining bedroom or hallway, paired with a tone-on-tone sidewall paper, to help achieve an overall "whole-house" effect. The border is not used solely by itself, as the look seems "unfinished."

The company's newer collections, like Chronicles, Stripe Resource, Front Porch and Treillage, which incorporate many of these new design trends, are available through interior designers and fine wallcovering and decorating stores. For more information or the names of local dealers, call 1-800-223-0704.

Revolutionary roofing products save homeowners thousands of dollars

Replacing your roof can be a costly repair expense. Now, there are two new roofing products on the market that can help homeowners save thousands of dollars by offering a permanent solution to roof replacement: AstonWood Steel Shingles and StoneCrest Steel Shingles manufactured by MetalWorks.

You probably never will drive a car over your home's roof, but the majority of roofs in America use the same material that most roads are made of — asphalt. And, like roads that crack, break and develop potholes over time, the asphalt shingles on your roof also deteriorate.

That means major replacement expense. In fact, replacing your roof every 10 years over the life of your home can cost as much as $60,000 when you consider material, labor and inflation.

So, how can you create the ultimate roadblock against this major repair expense? The answer is quite revolutionary: steel.

Today, there are two new roofing products on the market that offer a permanent solution to roof replacement, yet are priced as affordably as premium asphalt shingles. The two products, AstonWood Steel Shingles and StoneCrest Steel Shingles, manufactured by MetalWorks of Pittsburgh, Pa., represent the greatest advancement in roofing technology in more than a century.

AstonWood Steel Shingles replicate the rich look of wood or cedar shingles, while StoneCrest Steel Shingles present the appearance of slate or copper shingles. Unlike these traditional materials, MetalWorks steel shingles are warranted to last a lifetime. One reason is that they're made from a unique combination of steel, aluminum, zinc and multilayered coatings — a process known as "galva-strength" — which actually makes them stronger than ordinary steel.

Even hail can't penetrate them. Yet, even though they're made of steel, they're incredibly light, requiring no structural reinforcement or complicated installation.

In addition to their material strength, both products are installed using a patented four-way locking system that actually holds tighter as winds get stronger. Even hurricane-force winds are no match for the strength of this system.

Strength and the savings in roof replacement are just two of the many benefits of a MetalWorks steel shingles roof. Each roof also offers exceptional energy efficiency. Unlike asphalt, which stores heat, metal naturally dissipates heat, helping keep your attic and your home cooler during the hot days of summer. The shingles come in a variety of colors — colors protected against fading through an advanced fluoropolymer coating system that resists even dirt and environmental aging.

Finally, there are the environmental benefits. Because they can be installed over other roofing materials, there is no tear-off involved. That saves you money, and saves all of us scarce landfill space.

Now, there is a permanent and more affordable way to keep a roof over your family's head — and it's available only through MetalWorks. To learn more about this revolutionary new roofing system, to get an estimate on your house, or for the name of a contractor nearest you, call 1-800-320-0101. Get ready — here come those waves again

It's hard to believe I planted my first Wave petunias way back in June of last year and they were still going strong deep into November ... in Minnesota, after two major wind and hail storms, and after a week-long assault under a painter's tarp. Try that with any other annual!

To make their longevity even more amazing, I made it especially tough on my Waves; planting them in a spot that got scorching hot, full sun almost all day during the summer. I did make sure to water them on the hottest days, and I fed them occasionally with a slow-release fertilizer.

But, I'm getting ahead of myself. In case you're not familiar with this high-performance petunia, here are the facts: Waves are the first and only petunias with a strong ground-cover "habit." This means that instead of growing upright like other petunias, Waves develop horizontal stems that either can cover the ground or tumble over the edges of containers or hanging baskets. And, here's the best part — flower production is continuous when the plants are given regular water and fertilizer, or in my case, sometimes even when the care you give them is not so regular. No fussy dead-heading needed here.

Pretty neat, huh? I was lucky enough to try the two new varieties of Waves last year. Formerly only available in pink and purple, there now are two new eye-catching colors for 1999: rose and misty lilac. Misty lilac is the lightest colored of the Waves. It also has the largest flowers. The blossoms open light lavender, and become lighter as they age. They're perfect companions to purple Waves. Rose is a bit bolder in hue and is outstanding as a foundation planting, or against a white picket fence.

If planted in decent soil, Waves quickly grow into 6-inch-thick blankets of soft color when spaced 1 to 2 feet apart, or you can plant them in baskets or containers. Mulch isn't really needed, since the plants tend to choke out weeds, forming a thick mat of vegetation in no time.

You can buy Wave petunias at local garden centers, as well as Lowe's, Frank's, Wal-Mart, Kmart, Fred Meyer, Target, Canadian Tire, Meijer stores, select Home Depot and Kroger stores, and Home and Garden Showplace Garden Centers.

They're easy to spot, since most stores put them in pretty pink pots. Don't wait too long though, they tend to sell out early in the season. To find a supplier in your area, click into the "Where Can I Get It?" section of the Wave Web site at www.wave-rave.com. Tell them The Lazy Homeowner sent you! — By Mike Ferrara The Lazy Homeowner Wave petunias are available in two new "flavors," rose and misty lilac, in addition to the old standbys, pink and purple.

Protect your home from service scams

Spring is here and homeowners are beginning seasonal cleaning and repairs. Unfortunately, many of us have heard stories about con artists who take advantage of trusting individuals by posing as repairmen and swindling homeowners out of thousands of dollars for work that was never done. Fortunately, there are many things you can do to keep from falling victim to impostors or deceptive technicians hoping to make a fast buck. The following tips offer important, money-saving practices that will keep you steps ahead of the con artists while protecting you and your home against costly scams.

Do not accept unsolicited service calls. Reputable companies dispatch service technicians only at the customer's request. If you did not call a company for service and a technician appears at your door claiming he has a job to do, be suspicious. Turn him away and call the company to discuss the issue.

Research companies first. If you are faced with a problem in your home and need to rely on a company you don't know, call the Better Business Bureau or your local chamber of commerce to learn about the company's track record. Have there been numerous complaints lodged against the company? If so, ask around your neighborhood and find out which companies others have used in similar situations.

Notice the technician's vehicle. Generally, technicians drive company trucks or have the company's sign posted on their vehicles. If they do not, ask for the name and telephone number of a supervisor and call to confirm before allowing anyone to work on your home.

Get a second opinion. If a service technician recommends an expensive repair or replacement and you have not experienced any problems with the item in question, get a second opinion. While an honest technician may be saving you from an impending catastrophe, a dishonest one may cost you more than you bargained for.

Our Mommy is the best in the whole world! She is very diligent as she raises us five girls. She teaches us, cooks for us, prays with us, snuggles with us, and makes fresh bread. All because she loves us! Her worth to us is far above rubies! Rachel

My mom's the best because...

1. She takes care of me when I'm sick and I don't complain.
2. She takes me to practice.
3. She hugs me when I'm sad.
4. She helps me with my homework.
5. My dad travels so some times she's mom and dad.

She's cool and the best mom a kid could even have!

Living Life on Earth

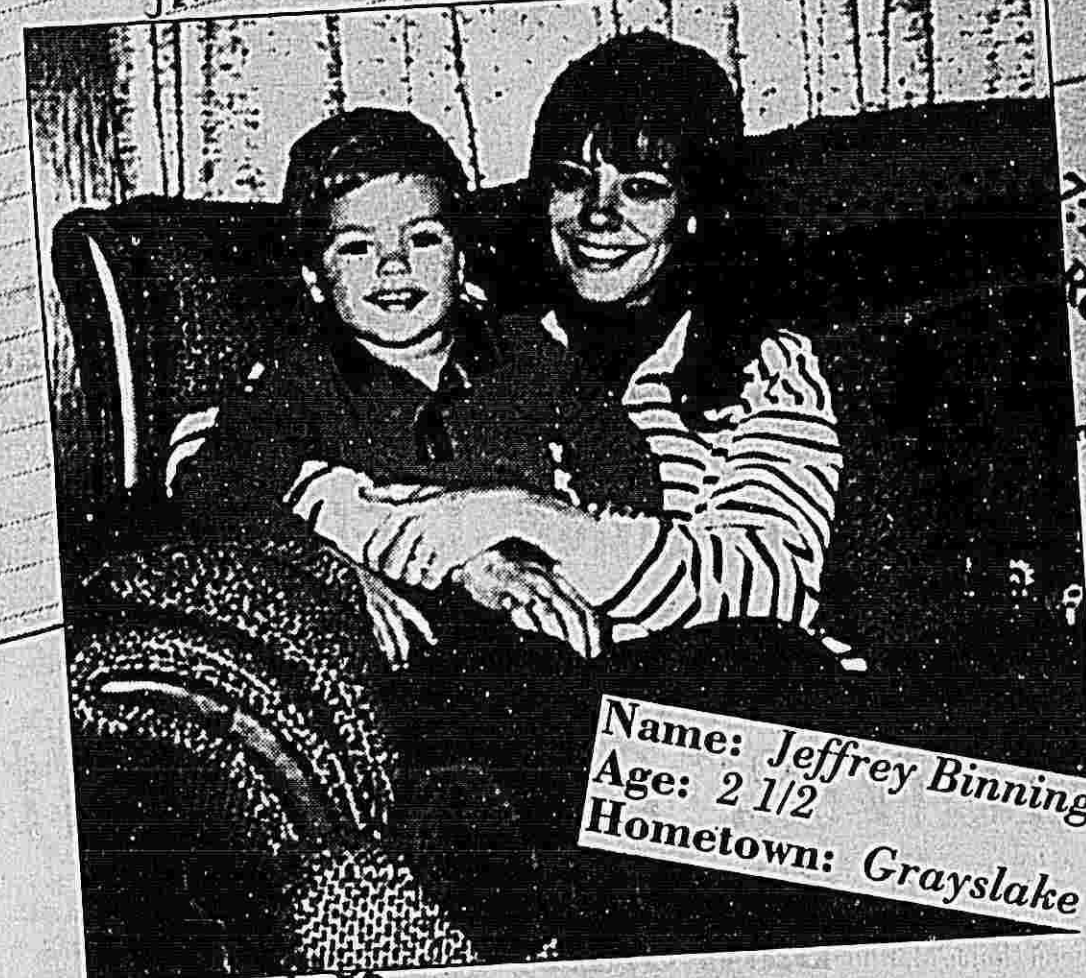

My Mom is the best in the world. She cooks the best food. I love her because she takes care of me. She takes me to many fun places and she is very nice. She works hard being our scout leader. That is why she is the best.

Dear Lakeland Newspapers,
I think my mom is the best because she always puts everybody before her. She is kind to everyone, and she has always taught me not to disobey the law or rules. She has brought me up as a fine lady. She is the best Mom!

Sincerely,
Christie

My MOMMY is the best, because she gives me lots of hugs. To let me know she loves me. She works full time, but, calls to let me know she is thinking about me. My MOMMY makes time in the evenings to play and read to me.

A Funeral Home Serving All Your Needs Over 50 Years of Caring, Dignified Service

Family Owned and Staffed • Traditional Services • Available 24 Hours A Day Serving Mc Henry & Lake Counties • Pre-Planning • Cremation Services

Remember When People Tried Harder?

Because we have served families in our area for many years, we have never forgotten the way service used to be... when people gave that extra effort, and when service went far beyond the expected.

We are committed to continuing that same philosophy of service — because some things should never change.

The amount to redeem is subject to increase at 6-month intervals from the date of sale and may be further increased if the purchaser at the tax sale or his assignee pays any subsequently accruing taxes or special assessments to redeem the property from subsequent forfeiture or tax sales. Check with the County Clerk as to the exact amount you owe before redeeming.

This notice is also to advise you that on April 28, 2000, a Petition was filed for a tax deed that will transfer title and the right to possession of this property if redemption is not made on or before September 14, 2000.

This matter is set for hearing in the Circuit Court of this county in Waukegan, Illinois on September 21, 2000. You may be present at this hearing but your right to redeem will already have expired at that time.

YOU ARE URGED TO REDEEM IMMEDIATELY TO PREVENT LOSS OF PROPERTY

Redemption can be made at any time on or before September 14, 2000 by applying to the County Clerk of Lake County, Illinois at the County Court House in Waukegan, Illinois.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/GIVE AWAY COLUMN.
 If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts:
 *Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
 *Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.
 *Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Career Clipboard Notes

Hitting the Bulls Eye In your Job Search

Last week we discussed the Shotgun approach of scattering your resume to every company might have a job that would be a good match for you. However, the best method to finding a job is to know exactly what you're looking for and getting that job. This is what I call the rifle approach.

Documenting Your Goals

The first step in this process is to document your goals. This documentation is important so that you can have a reference point for the next two steps. The goals need to be organized in a way that is helpful. I recommend documenting everything that is important to you in a two-column format. In the right column write the goal and in the left column write the season that it is important to you. Once you feel you have a complete list, prioritize these goals so that you can see which are most important.

The Research

The second step is to research all of the companies that may meet your goals. Start by finding a good research library in your area (the best are at colleges that have good business school). Find the companies in the area where you want to live and then start to read everything you can about them. Read the companies advertising, annual report and 10k statement. Read every article written about the company, including their press releases. This information will be found in newspapers, magazines, and on the internet. If you have trouble finding the information ask a librarian for help.

Again, document the results of your research in a two column format. In the right column list the goal and in the left column write your perspective on how that company meets your objective. There are no perfect companies. You are looking for the two or three companies that best meet your goals.

The Sale

The final step is to work with the hiring managers in the companies you identified. You will want to contact a recruiter to ask about the skills and experience that they want. If you don't have those skills you will need to get them at school or in an interim job. Although this final step may take some time, the investment will produce the right job for you.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am presently employed with (name withheld) full time. I have been here for the past three months. My supervisor approached me yesterday to say that I have been late on three occasions in the past 2 weeks and that for the next 30 days I must report to work on time. She said that any violation of this will be cause for termination of my job. While I admitted to her that I knew I was late on those days, I tried to explain to her that I also work another job 5 days a week and will try to make an effort to be here on time. She did not seem to be so sympathetic to the fact that I have to work 2 jobs in order to make ends meet. Now I have to watch myself every day to make sure I am to work on time, but I don't think it is fair that the company doesn't understand and cut me some slack. I have read that sometimes if a someone writes to you with a problem, you have offered to step in and help. Can you possibly step in and give me some advice before I lose my job? R.D. -Round Lake Beach

A: The company that you are referring to has a pretty standard policy across the board. They operate between the hours of 7:30 and 4:30 and require their employees to do the same. Upon hire you were given a handbook noting the terms and conditions of hire which clearly states the need to be on time for work or appropriate action is taken. This is for everyone with unexcused absences as well as unexcused tardiness. Personally, I do not think it is asking too much, nor is it unreasonable for an employer to expect their employees to show up for work on time and work their required hours. This company, I am told, does not require any overtime so there is nothing unreasonable about a required 40-hour work week. The best I can tell you, is that if you cannot show up for work on time, then the problem is yours. If they made an adjustment to the schedule for you, then they would have to make an adjustment for all of their employees. According to your report, it shows that there have been three instances in 4 weeks where you have reported for work a minimum of 15-30 minutes late. Not good! If you are having a difficult time getting out the door to report on time, try setting your alarm for 1/2 hour earlier than normal. You will feel better by not having to rush. Another option is to speak with your night job and see if they can be somewhat flexible with your hours. Perhaps you can cut down your hours there. You may be burning the candle at both ends and exhausting yourself unnecessarily. Perhaps you should search for a job that will net you more money for one job to compensate for the two jobs you are now holding to support yourself. Not only could that help you financially, but also allow you some time for yourself. Think of these as options to consider, however the word is...you must comply with the rules of your daytime employer. You have been given a 30-day probationary period to get it together. The rules might be too stringent for your liking, but the truth is, they are not concerned about what you do after 4:30 p.m. All they expect is 7:30 to 4:00 Monday through Friday. What you do after hours is your business, unless of course it is affecting their business.
